United States Supreme Court Holds That No Error Was Committed by Lower Court Excluding Insanity Evidence

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF WIFE AT LAKE COMO

Case Has Been Pending for Three Years — Prosecution Holds That He Killed Wife and Threw Body in Lake

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Porter Charlton must return to Italy to answer the charge of having murdered his wife in June, 1910, at Lake Como. The supreme court so decided today.

After discussing the insanity plea the justice took up the question whether, under the treaty of 1868, an American citizen could be extradited to Italy for a crime committed there, since Italy will not extradite its subjects for crimes here.

The refusal to surrender citizens for extradition, the justice said, was of modern origin. Some of the American treaties provide, he added, that citizens shall not be extradited while the others are silent.

"The conclusion is," said Justice Lurton, "that this government, making exception in some treaties that it would not extradite its citizens, shows it was fully aware that there was no exception in favor of citizens in other treaties where the exception was not made, as the treaty with Italy."

He pointed out that it was conceded that crimes committed in Italy were not justiciable in the United States, so if extradition were not granted the criminals would go unpunished. Crimes committed in the United States, he added, were justiciable in Italy. According to international law he held that the reason of Italy's refusal to grant had not become void but merely voidable at the option of the American government. The executive department having waived its right to annul the treaty, the justice concluded, nothing remained for the court to do but to enforce its decision.

Charlton has been a prisoner in the Hudson county, N. J., jail nearly three years. The supreme court's decision today affirms the action of former Secretary Knox who determining to turn Charlton over to Italy.

FATHER TAFT'S CLASSMATE.

Charlton's father, who conducted a gallant fight for his son, was a former United States judge for Porto Rico and a classmate of former President Taft.

Justice Lurton began delivering the supreme court's opinion in the Porter Charlton extradition case as soon as the court assembled.

He said first that no error had been committed in excluding evidence of insanity at the habeas corpus proceeding in the lower court and that no error was committed in making the formal demand for Charlton because it was not necessary at the extradition hearing.

HISTORY OF CHARLTON CASE.

The killing of Mrs. Porter Charlton stirred Europe and America as have few murders of recent years. With the discovery of her crumpled body stuffed into a trunk and sunk in Lake Como, Italy, where she had been with her husband to spend her honeymoon, both continents turned to search for the murderer.

The first great problem to solve was the whereabouts of the twenty-one-year-old husband who, as a New York lawyer, had married the woman, eight years older than himself and the divorced wife of Neville H. Castle, a San Francisco lawyer. His father, Paul Charlton, law adviser of the bureau of insular affairs and former President Taft's classmate, was firm in the conviction that his son, too, had been murdered. That question was solved when Porter Charlton, with his initials marked on his suit case, arrived on a steamer from Italy, a few days later at Hoboken, N. J. That night there appeared a confession bearing his name.

THE CONFESSION.

"My wife and I lived happily together, but she had an uncontrollable temper, and so had I," read the confession. "On the night of the murder she had the worst outbreak of temper I ever saw. I told her to keep quiet or I would make her keep quiet. Then she had another outbreak. I took up a wooden mallet, with which I had been repairing a table, and hit her on the head and body two or three times. At midnight I put the body in a trunk, dragged it to a small pier near the house, and threw it overboard."

With the acceptance of the confession as a valid one, the case became almost at once the diplomatic problem of Charlton's extradition. It was admitted on all hands, that Charlton could not be tried in the United States for a crime committed in Italy. His frends, headed by his father, took the position that he could not be extradited to Italy, because Italy had always refused, under the extradition treaty of 1868 to return Italian subjects to the United States to answer for crimes committed here.

ITALY ASKKS FOR CHARLTON.

Italy, however, made a request for the prisoner. Secretary Knox parried by asking if Italy thereby meant to waive its past interpretation of the treaty. Months of diplomatic exchanges followed.

Judge John A. Blair, of the court of Oyer and Terminer in Hudson county, N. Y., sitting as a federal extradition magistrate, held Charlton subject to extradition. The court refused to receive evidence of Charlton's insanity on the ground that under the law of New Jersey defenses could not be made at a preliminary hearing of the nature then before the court.

Secretary Knox approved that holding, taking the position that inasmuch as Charlton could not be brought to answer for the crime in this country, the United States would adhere to its interpretation of the treaty by surrendering him to Italy.

Charlton's father then began the last fight to save his son from extradition. He applied to the circuit court of the United States for New Jersey for his release on habeas corpus proceedings, holding that the treaty did not justify the extradition and that evi-

CHAIRMAN CANDLER INTERPRETS COURT'S DECISION ON RATES

Head Georgia Railroad Commission Declares the Minnesota Decision Does Not Set Down Any New Doctrine

TWO PRINCIPLES ARE MORE CLEARLY DEFINED

Minnesota Officials Express Satisfaction Over Result and Railroads Also Are Pleased Over Prospects They Say

According to C. Murphey Candler, chairman of the state railroad commission, the decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota freight and passenger rate cases does not set down any new doctrine of rate regulation, but merely defines more distinctly than heretofore two of those doctrines —that the states can regulate rates on intrastate traffic along intrastate roads, and that congress can regulate all rates though it has not done so in the matter of intrastate rates on interstate roads.

The decision makes a little bit clearer, says the commissioner, the zone of demarcation between jurisdiction by the state and jurisdiction by the federal government.

Chairman Candler considers dangerous the declaration by the court that congress has the power "to displace local laws by substituting laws of its own." He cannot believe that the constitution should be interpreted so, he declares. Perhaps modern conditions may demand just that, says he, but he believes it should be accomplished by an amendment to the constitution rather than by judicial interpretation.

MR. CANDLER'S VIEW.

"It is a very unsatisfactory undertaking for a lawyer to attempt to interpret correctly the decision of the highest final court of appeals, where every word is carefully weighed and every part of the context must be considered, upon a telegraphic abstract of that decision. As I gather from the press reports of the Minnesota rate cases decisions by the supreme court two important doctrines, not new at all, were more distinctly defined than heretofore, towit:

"First. That the states have the power to regulate rates between points within their boundaries, on railroads not crossing these boundaries, where such rates do not directly or unduly affect interstate commerce in competition with the intrastate commerce.

"Second. That congress has the power to regulate all rates—those on traffic moving wholly within state lines as well as on that crossing state lines on interstate railroads—that is, rails crossing state lines, but that not having exercised this power as to intrastate traffic on interstate lines up to this time, and on the contrary, in the interstate commerce act, having expressly provided that regulation therein should not extend to transportation wholly within a state, the states can regulate intrastate traffic on interstate roads so long as such regulation does not unduly or discriminatingly affect the interstate traffic. Of course, the old doctrine that such state made rates must not be confiscatory, is reaffirmed.

A CLEARER DIVISION.

"As I read the decision as outlined in the press reports, no really new principle not heretofore announced or suggested have been announced.

"Perhaps what is called the 'twilight zone' between state and federal regulative powers has been a little narrowed, and the real dividing line between the two, always hazily defined, has been a little more clearly drawn; the decision is about a stand off between the states right advocates and their federal powers opponents.

"The decision expected soon, in the Shreveport-Texas case may still further narrow this twilight zone, or more sharply draw the line of demarkation between state and federal powers.

NOT WHOLLY FAVORABLE.

"As I interpret the decision, it is not on the whole favorable or encouraging to the advocates of state control. I consider as especially dangerous to the *state's contentions as to their regula*tory powers, the declaration by the court that congress has the power 'to displace local laws by substituting laws of its own.' This may mean that the states have the right to regulate rates on purely local or intra-state traffic moving strictly within state boundaries over a road which crosses a state boundary, only until congress chooses to exercise regulatory powers as to such local or intra-state traffic.

"I cannot yet believe that the fathers of the federal constitution, when they provided in that instrument that congress should have the power to regulate commerce between the states, intended for it to bear any such construction as this, which deprives the states of the power to regulate commerce conducted wholly within state lines.

USE HIGHER AUTHORITY.

COOL WAVE GRIPS CITY; MERCURY HITS FIFTIES

Low Temperature Will Continue for Several Days, Rain Quits Wednesday

That old straw bonnet was given a short respite Tuesday and last winter's derby or brindle "Kelly" again was put in commission. The day was one of the coldest and rawest that the city ever has known to come in the month of roses and brides. It was 52 at 7 a. m., while the wind howled in a gale and rain came down intermittently.

Monday was the coldest June 9 recorded since the weather bureau was established thirty-five years ago. It went as low as 54 and as high as 55. Tuesday will make history too, for this June 10 started out with two degrees nearer freezing than Monday.

The coldest day in June was June 1, 1889, when 39 degrees was registered. On June 13, 1903, it was 46. So cheer up; things might have been worse.

This cold wave swooped down on the south from the northwest, and every state east of the Mississippi experienced the discomfort of March or fall weather in mid summer.

Overcoats were worn with comfort, and peek-a-boo waists were hidden under jackets.

The weather forecaster sees a ray of hope ahead, and is so comforting as to announce that maybe in a couple of days the cold snap will be over, and the "the temperature will go up rapidly," to use his expression.

Rain is the prediction for Tuesday and part of Wednesday. The skies will clear probably by Wednesday afternoon. The temperature still will be low and 75 would be considered high. If the mercury should climb to that point before Friday.

There was no snow anywhere Monday although report came that it was snowing in Chicago. The report caused no comment because everyone thought so.

"It will probably be so windy" was another comforting comment the weather forecaster made Tuesday.

Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Conner does not think the present cool spell will cause any material damage to the cotton crop.

"Of course, cotton cannot stand very much cold," he said, "but it is continued cold that hurts it most. We have had colder weather in June, when it was low enough for frost. I can see no reason for the farmers to become alarmed. Cotton has had a good start, and our reports from most sections of the state indicate that the outlook has improved greatly in the last ten days and the crop generally is in excellent shape."

SOUTH CAROLINA'S MISMATED MAKE ATLANTA THEIR RENO

Divorcee Admits in Court She Came Here From Greenville, But Despite That, Jury Frees Her—Judge Ellis Intimates Atlanta Is Convenient for Soul-Sick Ones in Divorceless State

That Atlanta bears the same relation to South Carolina that Reno does to a great part of the United States was developed in superior court Tuesday when Mrs. Jennie Richie admitted on the stand that she came here from Greenville, S. C., to get a divorce from William C. Ritchie.

Mrs. Ritchie, questioned closely by Judge Ellis, told the jurors that her husband threatened to cut her throat and she left him to come to Atlanta on her father's advice to sue for divorce.

Despite the fact that Judge Ellis carefully explained the law to the jurymen, declaring that residence in Atlanta for the mere purpose of getting a divorce does not constitute a bona fide residence for the purpose of the statute, Mrs. Ritchie was given a decree. Her husband's rights to remarry was denied.

In his brief charge to the jury the judge explained the fact that no divorces are granted for any reason in South Carolina and intimated plainly that South Carolinians are using Atlanta as a sort of convenient Reno, coming here for a twelve months' residence and then suing for legal separation.

Declaring that he was temperamental and that his wife did not understand his gentle nature, Pitzhugh Lee was granted a second verdict against Mrs. Carrie Lee on the grounds of cruel treatment. Lee told the jury that he was of a confiding, affectionate nature and extremely temperamental. His wife, he said, was high tempered and quarrelsome. He had been abused fearfully during his life with her, he said.

"One night," he explained to the jury, "she choked me and then got out of bed and took a weapon off the bureau and started to kill me. I saved myself from harm by locking myself in another room."

T. N. McRea, another divorce plaintiff, asserted that he was certain his wife could have whipped him and for that reason he left her. He, too, was granted a divorce.

Mrs. J. L. Sullivan took a verdict from M. W. Sullivan on the grounds of extreme cruel treatment. Her husband after beating her, she said, abandoned her and her children.

MISS EDNA BEHRE WEDS BY SOCIALISTIC CEREMONY

Atlanta Girl at Radcliffe Marries Brother's Room Mate at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 10.—Edna Behre, a Radcliffe senior whose home is in Atlanta, Ga., was one of the principals in a romantic socialistic wedding performed behind locked doors late yesterday. James Frazer Justice of the peace performed the ceremony in his Boston office which made the pretty southerner the bride of Kenneth MacGowan, of St. Louis, a Harvard graduate and now assistant dramatic editor of the Boston Transcript.

All attendants except the one witness required by law were dispensed with. This witness was a stranger to the couple, and was hurriedly summoned from a neighboring office. Instead of the usual marriage service a civil contract was agreed upon by the couple whereby comradeship and equal right is to form the basis upon which their wedded life will be conducted.

Mr. MacGowan obtained his license to wed yesterday noon while his intended was deep in her final college examinations. Later the couple went to Boston where the knot was tied. The groom was a room mate of Theodore S. Behre while at Harvard and thus became acquainted with his chum's sister.

Mrs. MacGowan has just won a Radcliffe award for a "thesis on socialism," and her husband was president of the University Socialism club while at Harvard.

Miss Behre is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Behre, and the granddaughter of Dr. Theodore Schumann, a pioneer druggist of this city. The Behre family lived for many years in Atlanta until last fall, when they moved to New Orleans.

GRAND JURY CONSIDERS BILL AGAINST W. P. FAIN

Action of Jury on Bill Not Made Public at Adjournment, Felder Not Indicted

There being no superior court judge at hand to receive the documents, the particulars of bills returned by the Fulton grand jury shortly before 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon were not divulged when the grand jury had adjourned for the day. No action was taken by the grand jury regarding a bill that had been drawn against Thomas B. Felder for its consideration. The jury's action upon a bill drawn against W. P. Fain, city police commissioner, charging a misdemeanor, alleging violation of section 383 of the criminal code, was not made known.

It was said unofficially, however, that an indictment had been returned against Mr. Fain.

Investigation by the Fulton grand jury was begun Tuesday morning, earlier than had been expected, of the charges uttered before it that Thomas B. Felder, lawyer, had a weapon concealed on his person in the jury's anteroom recently when he and Detective Chief N. A. Lanford approached a physical encounter.

The grand jury did not finish that investigation before it began sifting another matter—the charge that Police Commissioner W. P. Fain had been the object of a complaint by a neighbor, who alleged disorderly conduct by Mr. Fain in his (Mr. Fain's) apartment at 40 East Harris street, and who stated that the police had made no case against Mr. Fain.

Bills had been drawn against both Mr. Felder and Mr. Fain.

In the Felder matter, the grand jury examined Henry Bellingrath, who testified that he did not see a pistol in Mr. Felder's pocket. The other witness summoned, Dr. Horace Grant, had not appeared when the grand jury took up the Fain matter.

FAIN WITNESS CALLED.

In the Fain investigation the first witness called was J. E. Skaggs, agent in Atlanta of the Southern Express company, resident at 44 East Harris.

In the Fain matter, it is related by the police authorities that several months ago a complaint was received from J. E. Skaggs that his neighbor, Mr. Fain, had a party of friends in his apartment and that they were creating a disturbance. The police responded to Mr. Skagg's call they say, and quieted the disturbance. A few weeks ago, say the police, another call came from Mr. Skaggs. Captain Mayo states that he was notified by the call officers (whose names he does not remember, he says), of their complaint. The call officers reported that the residents had settled the matter amicably. Some hours later, said Captain Mayo, he himself went out to the address given, to confirm the officers' report, and found the apartment formerly occupied by Mr. Fain, locked, and no one at home. Mr. Skaggs, said he, was satisfied, and the police made no case against anyone.

The charges against Commissioner Fain grew incidentally out of the grand jury's recent investigation of vice conditions generally in Atlanta, following charges of graft against the police department.

The grand jury took up another bill during its Tuesday morning session, it was said. That was reported to be a bill against Mrs. N. Powell, convicted in city court some days ago on a charge of conducting a disorderly house at 95 Spring street and sentenced to four months in jail. Her sentence was appealed. The phase of her case that the grand jury was considering, did not become apparent.

SAYS CHIEF LANFORD IS NOT SEEKING FOR TRUTH OF MURDER

He Charges That the Detective Chief Has Banked His Sense and Reputation on Proving Frank Guilty

"WHY HASN'T CONLEY BEEN BEFORE JURY?"

Attorney Declares Evidence All Points to Negro—Says Felder-Lanford Controversy Unfair to His Client

Luther Z. Rosser, chief counsel for Leo M. Frank, the pencil factory superintendent, who is under indictment for the murder of Mary Phagan, Tuesday afternoon broke his persistent silence regarding the case and gave out a statement for publication.

Mr. Rosser gives as a reason for this statement the fact that Thomas B. Felder has publicly charged Detective Chief Lanford with trying to shield Frank and that the detective chief has in turn publicly accused Felder with having been employed in the interest of Frank.

The accuracy of both charges is denied. Mr. Rosser asserts that Chief Lanford has "banked his sense and reputation as both a man and politician on Frank's guilt," and that if he had been seeking the murderer of Mary Phagan with an open mind and not seeking to vindicate his announced opinion of Frank's guilt the negro Conley would have already told the whole truth.

Mr. Rosser declares that both the actions and statements of the negro Conley bear the marks of guilt. He states that in making his revelations concerning the murder Conley is handicapped by Lanford's opinion.

Mr. Rosser inquires why it was the detectives did not present Conley as a witness before the coroner's jury and why they now prevent him from telling his story to the grand jury, which he says should determine whether the negro should be indicted and if so upon what count.

MR. ROSSER'S STATEMENT.

Editor The Journal:

Felder and Lanford, in an effort to make progress in their feud, charge each the other with giving aid to Leo Frank. Lanford charges that Felder was employed by Frank and is looking for that reason to shield him. Felder charges that Lanford and his associates are also seeking for some reason to shield and protect Frank.

Both charges are untrue, and at a time when no harm could come to an innocent man would well be treated as antidotes to monotony.

Unfortunately, however, the present situation is such that fair-minded citizens may be misled by these counter charges.

Felder does not, nor has he at any time, directly or indirectly represented Frank. For Lanford to chirge the contrary does Frank a serious injustice.

If Lanford would have been in a sane, normal mood, he would have known that every act of Felder has been against Frank. The engagement of the Burns agency ought to have satisfied Lanford. No detective agency of half prudence would have double-crossed the Atlanta department in the Phagan case. Nor did Felder have excuse for suspicion against Lanford. There was reason to suspect his fairness, his accuracy and the soundness of his methods, but not his reckless zeal against Frank.

Had Felder been in a calm mood, I am sure he would never have charged the chief and his associates with intention to help Frank.

Lanford, at once as soon as Felder charged him with favoring Frank, settled in his mind the guilt of Frank and from that moment has vent every energy of his department, not in finding the murderer, but in trying to prove to the public that Felder was wrong in charging him with trying to shield Frank.

OPEN FIGHT TO SHATTER ALLEGED KODAK TRUST

Government Suit Asks Dissolution of Eastman Company Under Sherman Law

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 10.—Dissolution of the so-called Eastman Kodak trust was asked in a civil anti-trust suit filed here today by order of Attorney General McReynolds. The federal government seeks the dissolution by receivership, if necessary, of the Eastman Kodak company of New Jersey and the Eastman Kodak company of New York, which are charged with monopolizing the trade in photographic supplies in violation of the Sherman law.

It is the aim of the government to divide the assets and business of the two companies controlling 72 per cent of the business in the United States into such parts as will effectually destroy the alleged monopoly and restore free competition.

FORBID FIXING OF PRICES.

The petition in equity asks for an injunction forbidding the fixing of the resale price of cameras, films and other patented photographic supplies. This marks the attorney general's first application of the recent decision of the United States supreme court denying patentee the right to fix resale prices of retailers.

Following are named as defendants:

Eastman Kodak company of New Jersey; Eastman Kodak company of New York; George Eastman, Henry A. Strong, Walter S. Hubbell and Frank S. Nobile, all of Rochester, N. Y.

The bill filed by United States Attorney O'Brian is the result of an extensive investigation of the "trust" by James A. Fowler, assistant to the attorney general, and Clark McKercher, special assistant attorney general. Mr. McKercher is in immediate charge of the suit.

HOW "TRUST" WORKED.

The alleged monopoly has been accomplished, the petition says, by the Eastman company's absorbing or acquiring control of a great number of competitors in the United States and foreign countries.

Restraints the government declares have been imposed upon the business of competing manufacturers and dealers by the combination's "term of sale" under which Eastman made goods were handled exclusively by so-called Eastman dealers, who were not allowed to handle the goods of competitors until November, 1911, when the "terms of sale" were amended to restrict only Eastman goods manufactured and marketed under existing patents. The "terms of sale" also fix re-sale prices. Injunctions are asked for against those practices.

Complaint also is made that certain large retail or stock houses owned by the Eastman companies are conducting business under the names of the original owners.

Unfair competition is charged through the alleged practice of the Eastman companies in marketing through one of its competitors, the Defender company (Rochester), a certain film as if it were the product of an independent, suppressing the fact that it is made by the Eastman.

It is alleged that the General Paper company of Germany, the world's greatest producer of raw photographic paper, sells raw paper in the United States at a discount to the Eastman companies and refuses to supply any other manufacturer or dealer in this country.

HAS $35,000,000 CAPITAL.

The Eastman Kodak company of New Jersey, a holding company, has an authorized capital of $35,000,000, of which $26,000,000 has been issued. The Eastman Kodak company of New York, the operating company of the combination, is a $5,000,000 corporation, manufacturing and marketing photographic supplies.

How Eastman Company Will Meet the Suit

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 10.—The Eastman Kodak company will adjust its methods of doing business to meet the charges preferred against the company in the government's dissolution suit, filed today at Buffalo. George Eastman, president of the company, so announced here upon the receipt of news that suit had been started.

Mr. Eastman indicated, however, that the company would refuse to dissolve.

"While there is a prayer for dissolution as is usual, I am informed in all such cases," said Mr. Eastman, "it is believed that full compliance of the main specific demands for changes of trade methods freely offered by this company, will successfully meet all criticism and satisfy the trade at large and the government.

"Aside from the economic principles which would be violated by such dissolution it can clearly be shown that if the United States is to keep its lead in photographic art which it has maintained for the twenty years, co-ordinate of the films, plates papers and cameras must be continued. No concern that is unable to furnish products in all of these lines can hope to compete with the great foreign manufacturers."

In compliance with the government's petition, the company, according to Mr. Eastman, intends hereafter to operate its various retail stock houses under its own name.

It will also abandon its "exclusive sales policy."

Fine Burbank Potatoes Are Selling in Chicago At 16 1-2 Cents Bushel

CHICAGO, June 16.—The high cost of living received a jolt yesterday when old white Burbank potatoes were offered in Chicago at 16 1-2 cents a bushel, the lowest price in the memory of local dealers. A year ago these potatoes were selling at $1.60 and $1.15 a bushel. The potatoes offered yesterday were shipped from Minnesota at a time when the market price was between 80 and 90 cents. The consignees put the price down to 40, 30, 20 and finally to 16 1-2 cents, which barely paid the freight charges, but still there were no takers.

Consumers are paying 18 and 20 cents a peck to retailers for old potatoes and sales to the public by shippers in the railroad yards were planned today.

MANY WILL ATTEND BIG REUNION AT GETTYSBURG

(By Associated Press.)

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 10.—More than 22,000 applications have been filed with the Gettysburg semi-centennial celebration commission from Pennsylvanians for transportation to the historic town to participate in the four days' celebration beginning July 1.

About 1,200 Pennsylvanians who served in Pennsylvania regiments and are living in other states, have applied, as have 1,800 men who served in union regiments from other states and are now living in Pennsylvania. Two hundred Confederate veterans living in this state have asked for transportation and quarters and there have also been filed papers by 400 former regular army soldiers and 300 men from the navy who are entitled to be guests of the state.

SAYS FIRST CAR RIDE COST HER JUST $19.55

NEW YORK, June 10.—Marionetti Madia found that her first street car ride in this country cost her $19.55, according to her complaint to the police. She and two other immigrant girls just off a steamer from Italy ventured to board a cross-town car last night. Two girls offered Italian silver for their fares and it was accepted while Marionetti declares she handed the conductor a gold piece worth $20 and received only forty-five cents change. An interested man passenger believed the girls protests and helped to cause the arrest of the conductor, William Curtin, who is held on a charge of larceny.

CHEMIST HINTS THAT PAINTER WAS POISONED

Long and Bitter Fight Likely to Ensue, Intimates Man Examining Organs

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BALTIMORE, Md., June 10.—That a long and bitter fight will ensue between the heirs of the late E. O. Painter, the millionaire fertilizer manufacturer, and the combination of insurance companies before the $1,178,000 in policies are paid, is the intimation made by Dr. C. Glazer, the Baltimore chemist, who is now analyzing the internal organs of the dead man to decide whether death was caused by an accident or poison.

Dr. Glazer has not completed his report. In fact, he says it will be some time before the chemical analysis of the stomach, liver and kidneys of the wealthy Florida man can be made. As soon as it is completed it will be forwarded to the coroner of Jacksonville, who ordered the examination made.

The chemist would give no specific information as to what he had already found, but he hinted that some trace of poison had been detected. Should it be found that Mr. Painter died from the effects of poisoning instead of drowning, as first reported, the bulk of insurance money will cause a legal battle.

Painter was on a ferry boat in the St. Johns river when he was taken. It is said, with a violent coughing spell and fell into the water.

Redmond Stewart, of Barton, Wilmer & Stewart, representing one of the insurance companies' interest, has supervised the investigation here. It is expected that Dr. Glazer will make a formal report within a few days.

A WORKER APPRECIATES THIS

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am doing and feeling fine. I heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Foley Kidney Pills do not contain habit forming drugs and are tonic in acting, quick in results. They will help any case of kidney trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. For sale by all dealers.—(Advt.)

HIS LOVE FOR BASEBALL MADE HIM FORGE CHECK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 10.—His love for baseball caused William H. Calder, seventeen years old, to forge checks to the amount of nearly $1,000, according to his alleged confession to the police here last night. The victims were his employers, members of a prominent law firm.

Calder said he went to Chicago, first to attend the Frank Chance day ceremonies. Then he attended several games in Detroit and Denver and since his arrival in Los Angeles ten days ago has attended every game here.

Calder will be taken to New York for trial. He said his father is John H. Calder, a woman's suit manufacturer.

8,000 Business Men Become Road Makers And Build Highway

ALPENA, Mich., June 10.—Eight thousand business and professional men and farmers in northeastern Michigan yesterday made road laborers of themselves and constructed more than 250 miles of roadway between Bay City and Mackinaw City. Where there had been at sunrise mile after mile of corduroy road, sand holes and swamps, nightfall found an almost unbroken stretch of graveled highway.

The new road forms a part of the state highway from Detroit to Mackinaw City. The section built yesterday passes through forty-eight townships in the counties of Bay Arenac, Ogemaw, Iosco, Alpena, Alcona, Presque Isle and Cheboygan.

Four thousand teams and 750 automobiles participated in the great bee. The women of the country also did a share of the work, 2,500 of them being engaged in the task of feeding the workers.

DAKOTAS AND OBJIBWAYS WILL VIVIFY HIAWATHA

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 10.—One hundred and fifty Dakota and Objibway Indians from the Lake Erie reservation will vivify Longfellow's version of the legend of Hiawatha twice a day from today until July 9, in the woods and fields near Vancortlandt park. The aboriginal actors include a squaw of ninety years to portray the old Nokomis and a papoose strapped to a board will represent the infant Hiawatha.

The pageant is under the direction of the Woman's Municipal league and is given for the benefit of tenement improvement, public playgrounds and for educational purposes. Among prominent honorary committee members of the league are Colonel and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Low and District Attorney and Mrs. Whitman.

COMMITTEE ASKS BOARD FOR WALDO'S DISMISSAL

Recommendation Will Not Be Acted Upon for at Least One Week

NEW YORK, June 10.—The question of the fitness of Rhinelander Waldo to continue as police commissioner of New York City was passed on to the full board of aldermen today by the aldermanic committee, which for nearly a year has been investigating police conditions. The committee has recommended that Mayor Gaynor be called upon immediately to remove Commissioner Waldo, as having "by temperament and conduct shown himself unfit to occupy his office."

By the ordinary rules the report as it reaches the board of aldermen will be automatically laid upon the table for a week. It is said that the board stands practically tied at present on the question, but that those who insist upon the removal of the commissioner are so determined upon the matter that they have perfected plans for an immediate appeal to Governor Sulzer if the committee's recommendations are not adopted. This appeal would be taken by the Tammany municipal research, which has co-operated with the committee and which made possible a greatly increased scope of inquiry by obtaining from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., a gift of $25,000. The governor has authority to go over the head of the mayor in the removal of a city commissioner.

Will I Have to Solicit in Your Booklovers' Campaign?

That was the question asked us by a dear old lady in Campaign Headquarters the other day.

"No. God bless you, you will not have to solicit," was our answer. "All you will have to do is use that good brain that it is clearly evident you have and select all the correct titles from our official Catalogue. But don't let any one fool you with the idea that if you hold down to one or two answers you are going to win a big prize. You MIGHT win a box of candy that way, but the chances are you MIGHT NOT. But if you use that good brain God gave you and stretche your rights in this delightful Campaign, the chances are you will get one of the big prizes. And it would certainly please us to see you win, because in our last Booklovers' Campaign, conducted in the Northwest, one of the winners was a dear old lady 82 years old, and another was a schoolboy 12 years old, two classes that come close to the heart of the Campaign Editor, the very young and the very old.

So go ahead, my dear lady, and exercise all your rights and carry home that 4½ pounds of gold you have heard so much about. It don't weigh much, but will do wonders.

Come Up Where You Belong!

But the food must be right.

The gray tissue cells of Brain and Nerves are composed principally of water, albumen and Phosphate of Potash. The first two exist in every-day food, but phosphate of potash is frequently lacking.

This necessary element is supplied in

Grape-Nuts

FOOD

Made of choice wheat and barley, it contains all the vital mineral salts of these grains, including the phosphate of potash so essential for proper nourishment of Brain and Nerves.

Grape-Nuts food is thoroughly baked, digests easily (in about one hour), and thus forms a perfect complement to ordinary food in the dietary of the average person.

Grape-Nuts—more than any other one factor—supplies both body and brain with nourishment up to the standard of Nature's requirements.

If health and the efficiency which comes with it appeals to you, try Grape-Nuts!

The Joy Of Coming Motherhood

A Wonderful Remedy That is a Natural Aid and Relieves the Tension.

Mother's Friend is the only remedy known that is able to reach all the different parts involved. It is a penetrating external application after the formula of a noted family doctor, and lubricates every muscle, nerve, tissue or tendon involved.

By its daily use there will be no pain, no distress, no nausea, no danger of laceration or other accident, and the period will be one of supreme comfort and joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is one of the greatest of all helpful influences, for it robs childbirth of all its agonies and dangers, dispels all the doubt and dread, all sense of fear, and thus enables the mind and body to await the greatest event in a woman's life with untrammeled gladness.

You will find it on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle, or the druggist will gladly get it for you. Mother's Friend is prepared only by the Bradfield Regulator Co., 237 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who will mail an instructive book to expectant mothers. Write for it to-day.

POOLE SAYS SMOKE LIMIT SHOULD BE CUT IN HALF

Smoke Inspector Says It Should Be Six Instead of Twelve Minutes

If all the smokestacks in Atlanta smoked twelve minutes in the hour, which is the limit allowed by the city smoke law, then the atmosphere would be so full of smoke as to be unbearable, is the startling assertion made to The Journal Tuesday by the city smoke inspector, C. P. Poole.

What's more, according to him, the stacks wouldn't have to smoke that much to render the atmosphere unbearable. If they all smoked continuously for twelve minutes during three separate hours of the day, the atmosphere would hardly be bearable.

And therefore, says Inspector Poole, the law ought to be amended by cutting the limit in half. In other words, the limit ought to be six minutes instead of twelve.

"If a smokestack makes any progress at all toward smoke abatement," said Inspector Poole, "it can easily come within a six-minute limit.

"The Aragon hotel used to smoke nearly twenty minutes in the hour. I designed a device for their furnace which have brought the smoke down to four and one-half minutes in the hour. There are still some air leaks in the part of the furnace which wasn't changed, and as soon as I get them stopped the emission of smoke will be reduced still lower.

Changes in the furnaces in the Grant building produced results almost as good, though we haven't got them down as far yet as we are going to.

ONLY A FEW VIOLATORS.

"You may be surprised when I tell you that only the worst stacks in the city regularly gave out more than twelve minutes of smoke before the law was enforced. I could almost name them on the fingers of one hand.

"The average stack never did give out much over twelve minutes of smoke, and now they are giving out less, where we have brought them within the limit.

But as I say, if a stack makes any progress at all, it can come under six minutes, and the law therefore ought to be amended making six minutes the limit.

"As it is now, a good many owners of stacks have done just enough to come within the twelve minute limit, and still they are giving out enough smoke to be very objectionable. Of course so long as they are within the limit, we have no power to proceed against them. It wasn't much trouble for them to get within twelve minutes. In order to get within six minutes would require a little more trouble and some additional expense, but the saving in fuel would more than offset the expense.

"The present limit for locomotive engines is ninety seconds with an interval of two minutes.

"I have made repeated observations and found engines smoking seventy and eighty seconds, stopping a few moments, then starting again.

THE WORST WAY.

"The result of this sort of smoking is almost as bad as if they violated the law. In fact, they can make more smoke this fay than if they went just a little over the limit each time.

"What limit would I recommend for locomotive engines? I recommend that they be allowed to give out no black smoke at all within the Atlanta zone. That may sound unreasonable at first blush, but it is not. There are a few engines running regularly every day through the yards in the center of the city that give out no smoke.

"How do they accomplish it? Mainly by careful firing, and in some cases by careful firing combined with special furnace construction.

"The engines on the Atlanta and West Point railroad very rarely give out any smoke to speak of, either in the city or outside. That is because the road requires the firemen to fire carefully, so as to get complete combusion of all the fuel used. And complete combustion means no smoke. That is why it pays to eliminate smoke.

HISTORIC OLD CRADLE USED IN CELEBRATION

A cradle that was used eighty-six years ago by the grandparents of Rev. E. H. Peacock to rock his mother in, was made a feature in the special service for children at the Buckhead Baptist Sunday school on Sunday morning. Mr. Peacock is pastor of the church, and the cradle was used Sunday morning to celebrate Mrs. Dorothy Strickland's eightieth birthday. Mrs. Strickland is the oldest member of the Sunday school and she rocked in that historic old cradle the youngest member, little Miss Long. Mrs. Strickland was assisted by her "young" daughter, Miss Kate Strickland.

The services Sunday morning marked the organization of the cradle roll of the Buckhead Baptist church. All of the babies in the community are on its roster, and are eligible to attend Sunday school any Sunday morning. So far the attendance has been unusually good.

MAN ON WHITEHALL IS HURT BY AN AUTOMOBILE

C. F. Hawkins, a plumber of 210 South Forsyth street, was run down at the corner of Mitchell and Whitehall streets about 10 o'clock Monday night by R. C. Bone, driving along Whitehall street from Trinity avenue in an automobile.

Hawkins was taken to the Grady hospital, where it was stated that his arm was fractured and he had a number of bruises. Bone went to police headquarters and gave bond for $100. He will appear in police court Tuesday afternoon.

SOCIAL SURVEY OF CITY COMMENCED BY EXPERTS

Representatives of Russell Sage Foundation Talk Interestingly of Work

Atlanta is getting the first "social survey" in her history.

The work began Tuesday morning bright and early and will continue until the three experts from the Russell Sage foundation who arrived in the city Monday morning, as told of exclusively in The Journal, have completed their investigations.

Dr. Shelby M. Harrison, director of the department of surveys and exhibits of the Russel Sage foundation, has assistans, Zenas L. Potter and Franz Schneider, Jr., met with the committee on social survey in the rooms of the chamber of commerce Monday afternoon and were given a free rein in the matter of making preliminary investigations.

The committee made an effort to confine their work to any stated phase of the problem but gave the experts carte blanche and no time yas lost in getting down to activities.

Along just what lines they are working, no one knows, nor will this information be made public until the proper time. It is an open secret, however, that the work has commenced and that every phase of the city's life will be thoroughly investigated before the findings are formally given to the press.

Mr. Harrison, who is in charge of the survey is a post graduate of Northwestern university, where he made a specialty of sociology and economics. Later he attended Harvard and received his degree. Following that, he was, for a time a member of the staff of the Survey magazine. He made the Pittsburg survey, the first in the United States, which at once placed hfm in the limelight of notable achievements along this line of sociological research. Mr. Harrison was also in charge of the field work in Birmingham, Ala., and made the survey of Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. Potter is a graduate of the university of Minnesota and later took a post graduate course at Columbia in economics. Upon his graduation he was made field secretary of the New York child labor investigation and was later appointed director of the statewide cannery investigations. He assisted Mr. Harrison in the survey of Syracuse and later made a survey of Newburg, N. Y., having with him, at different times, eight assitsants.

Mr. Schneider has a M. S. degree from the Massachusetts School of Technology. At his graduation he was tendered a professor ship and occupied the chair with distinction. His name first came prominently before the public eye when he conducted the pure food investigation at Topeka, Kan., several years ago. He has made careful study and unlimited research into the question of ventilation and has served as health officer in some of the larger New England cities. The health surveys in Scranton, Pa., and Newark, N. J., were conducted under his personal supervision. He was also associated with Mr. Potter in the survey of Newburgh, of which mention has already been made.

MUST FACE FACTS.

In speaking of a "social survey" as a business proposition, Mr. Schneider said: "Cities the country over have caught the boom fever. Every village and hamlet has its camber of commerce, the chief purpose of which is to boom the city. The first cities to take up this plan undoubtedly profited by it, but today when every city is booming itself, any one of which largely offsets the work of the other and the city which is really going to push ahead in the race must do more than boom itself, it must be able to prove itself a better place to live in, work in, and conduct a business in than its competitors.

"Not long ago a big industrial establishment employing a large number of highly skilled men decided to move from a New England city into the middle west. They studied the situation carefully and their plans for moving were complete. As they could not replace their skilled men and would have to take them along they thought before acting it would be a tactful thing to send a committee of their employees to look over the ground. The employes went and came back saying that they would not move because in the city where it was proposed that they go there were no decent recreation facilities for working men and no parks or playgrounds for their children.

"Certain cities, with far-sighted leaders are realizing the fact that if they are going to attract people and industries they have got to be attractive and are striving to make themselves so. Des Moines, Iowa, has conducted a steady campaign for city improvement. Rochester, N. Y., has a chamber of commerce that has looked ahead and worked constantly to make Rochester a city worth while. The Duluth, Minn., chamber of commerce has employed a man for three years at $7,500 a year. The first year he is to make a survey of the city. The second year he is to put through a program to remedy weaknesses he discovers. The third year he is to boom the city. It is needless to say that Duluth's boom will be worth while."

This Isn't Cold; Remember 1816, the "Year of No Summer"

While Atlanta folk are shivering in the icy blasts which this month of rare and beautiful June has brought forth, they would do well to hark back to another day and remember the summer of the year eighteen-hundred-and-starve-to-death," the summer when June was a month of "ice and desolation" instead of roses and snow covered the earth where flowers should have bloomed.

This freakish year is told of in a clipping from the Boston Globe of some far distant date. The paper is yellowed with age but it records strange meterological happenings that came to pass in the United States in t he year 1816. It was furnished to The Journal by John Rasberry, of Atlanta.

In that summer, says the clipping, "the sun's rays seemed to be destitute of heat, and all nature was clad in a sable hue. Men and women became frightened, and imagined that the fire in the sun was being rapidly extinguished and that the world would soon come to an end."

As for June, it continues, it was "a month of ice and decolation. The oldest inhabitant was surprised, for never before had the thermometer sunk so low in the tube in these latitudes in the month of spring. Frost, ice and snow were common. One day the beautiful snow fell to a depth of ten inches in Vermont, seven inches in Maine and central New York. Papers received from England stated that the year 1816 would be remembered by the generation then living as a year in which there was no summer."

HOTEL MEN ASKED TO HELP KEEP CITY CLEAN

Recorder Asks Them to Remove Cause of Philadelphian's Complaint

J. P. Mangum, manager of the Albion hotel, 25 1-2 South Pryor street, was bound over by the recorder Monday afternoon under a $200 bond and charged with running a disorderly house, and four people arrested in a raid on his place Saturday evening were fined $15.75 each.

In imposing sentence on the hotel man, Recorder Nash R. Broyles remarked: "We are trying to keep Atlanta clean, and you hotel people must help us. If you do, Carl Hutcheson and the Philadelphia minister will not have grounds for complaint."

The raid on the Albion is one of several raids, which have been made since the vice squad went back into harness.

PUBLICITY LAW IS UPHELD BY COURT

U. S. Supreme Court Holds Newspapers Must Publish Sworn Statements

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—As interpreted by it, the supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the newspaper publicity law enacted as a part of the postal appropriation act of 1912.

The particular section attacked was to bar every newspaper and periodical from the mails unless the editors or owners filed with the postal authorities semi-annual sworn statements giving the names of the editors, owners, stockholders and bondholders and the average daily circulation and thereafter immediately published the statement. It also forbade publication of the paid-for articles without marking them "advertisements."

The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, of New York, sought to have the United States district court for southern New York enjoin the postmaster general from enforcing the act on the ground that it was unconstitutional. The objection then raised was that the law abridged the freedom of the press. The government defended the law as a regulation of the use of the second-class mail privileges.

The New York court sustained the validity of the law in this case, as it did in that brought by the Lewis Publishing company of New York. It is said the law affects more than 25,000 publications in the United States.

Chief Justice White interpreted the regulation objected to as being not a restriction of the freedom of the press but merely as affixing additional conditions for admission of newspapers to the mails.

In the course of his opinion he said: "Was the provision intended simply to supplement the existing legislation relative to second-class mail matter, or was it enacted as an exertion of legislative power to regulate the press, to curtail its freedom and under the assumption that there was a right to compel obedience to the comand of legislation having that object in view to deprive one who refused to obey, of all right to use the mail service?

"When the question is thus defined, its solution is free from difficulty, since by its terms the provision only regulates second-class mail and the exclusion from the mails by which it provides is not an exclusion from the mails generally, but only from the right to participate in and enjoin the privileges accorded by the second-class classification."

GUARANTEE CASE WILL BE RESUMED THURSDAY

Auditor's Report, Filed With Judge, to Be Basis of Further Litigation

With the auditor's report completed bearing in the receivership suit brought against the Guarantee Trust and Banking company will be resumed in superior court on Tuesday.

C. P. Metz, of the audit Company of the South, appointed by the court to determine the status of the Guarantee, filed his report with Superior Court Judge J. T. Pendleton Sunday, presenting interesting figures.

Considerable attention will be given to that part of the report which deals with the sale of the old Guarantee Trust Company of Georgia to the present firm. At the time of the transfer, it is said, the old company's liabilities were represented at $144,000. According to the auditor the old company turned over to the Guarantee Trust and Banking company for $224,089 when its liabilities amounted to $6,944.38. Its assets were $175,875.61 and the revenue income over $40,000.

The trial of the case, which will be about to begin, consuming more than three weeks, doubtless will be finished this week.

tion and trade, but if so, it ought to be the result of constitutional amendment and not brought about by judicial interpretation or congestion.

"There are other questions passed upon in the decision, but as I gather they perhaps relate more particularly to the cases under discussion than they do to the general question in which all the states are interested."

Rate Making Basis Most Accurate Yet Attained

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Lawyers who gathered today at the supreme court to listen to the application of the principles laid down by Justice Hughes in the Minnesota rate cases to the rate case from Missouri Arkansas, Kentucky, Oregon and West Virginia, were of the opinion that the rate making both in the states and before the federal government had been reduced to a much more accurate basis than ever before.

All sorts of opinions were voiced as to where the victory rested in the Minnesota discussions. Minnesota state officials in dispatches expressed their pleasure over the result, and Attorney General McReynolds and members of the interstate commerce commission said they were fully satisfied. The prospect of congress taking charge of state rates affecting interstate commerce is directly lent encouragement to the railroads that they would escape regulation by forty-eight state commissions.

The attempt of railroads to establish the cost of reproducing their property new as equivalent to the "fair value" on which they were entitled to earn rates, was regarded as doomed. The federal court in Minnesota adopted that basis. It allowed the railroad to multiply the normal market value of land by two to arrive at the cost of reproducing new a right of way outside of the limiting cities in that state.

Justice Hughes held that there was no place for hypothetical multipliers in fixing the "fair value" of railroad property upon which the public must pay a return, and that the railroads ought to be satisfied if a "fair average market price" was given their land, free from any hypothetical additions.

That would allow railroads to enjoy the benefit of the general prosperity of the country by receiving a return not only upon their original investments, but on the increase in the value of their investment.

Slump in Railroad Stocks Follows Minnesota Ruling

NEW YORK, June 10.—Wall street's interpretation of the effect on the railroads of the Minnesota rate decision was shown at the opening of the stock market today when railroad stocks slumped badly. Still stocks, which were directly concerned in the Minnesota case, were the heaviest sufferers, but virtually all stocks traded in fell to the lowest level of the year with losses extending to more than four points.

Brokers were clustered about the trading posts on the floor of the stock exchange long before the opening of the market. In the first downward rush large blocks of stock were marketed. Northern Pacific broke 4 1-4 points to 105. Great Northern preferred declined 3 1-point. Other railroad stocks were depressed sharply.

The slump in railroad shares caused sympathetic depression throughout the list. Among the industrials, the heaviest selling was in United States Steel, which broke 1 1-8 at the opening when a single block of 5,000 shares was sold. Other industrial losses ran from 1 to 3 points.

Large supporting orders had been distributed before the opening of the market and their execution checked the break after the first sharp decline. After ten minutes of trading the market became steadier.

Severe decline of American stocks in London gave warning of what was to be expected. On account of the support of this market, however, the opening declines here in some cases were smaller than the losses in the London market.

The market was nervous and unsettled throughout the morning. Following the rally shortly after the opening, stocks sold off again to still lower prices. Prices in many cases reached the lowest level since the panic of 1907.

Increase of "Idle Rich" Producing Criminals, Declares Police Chief

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Increases in th number of "idle rich" is producing a class of criminals in this country almost faster than the police can cope with it, according to representative Borland, of Missouri, who today addressed the convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Mr. Borland declared that "idle rich" set a pernicious example in their search for amusement and aroused a desire of emulation in the minds of persons of small means.

The result, he said, was to tempt poorer folk into indiscretions and crime to obtain money. The cabaret show, he declared to be one of the main causes for the spread of the social evil.

PARDEE SIGNS DECREE IN AN OLD LAND SUIT

A signed decree from Judge Pardee, which has been delivered to the clerk of the federal court, gives a new turn to a land suit fourteen years old. The decree requires the Georgia Land and Timber company and others to surrender certain important deeds in the case of the Chandler Land corporation as ancillary in the old case of Baker et al. vs. McKee et al.

The plaintiff the Chandler Land corporation charged that the Georgia Land and Timber company had conspired to seize a part of the plaintiff's holdings in Ware county by the wrongful use of deeds in the custody of J. M. Parks, a federal commissioner.

The decree sustains the plaintiff, removes Parks as commissioner and appointe O. C. Fuller in his place.

TAX REVISION RECOGNIZED AS BIGGEST PROBLEM

Not only are the capitol officials agreed that one of the really big problems facing the legislature is a general revision of the state's tax system so that much property which now escapes taxation will find its way to the tax digests, but a number of the legislators are taking the same view.

At least three members of the house of representatives will, it is said, introduce bills looking to the desired revision. These members are E. T. Moon, of Troup; F. A. Lipscomb, of Clarke, and O. Y. Gower, of Crisp.

NEW HEBREW SYNAGOGUE ORGANIZED IN ATLANTA

Congregation Anshe-Sfard Will Hold Services at 344 Woodward Avenue

A new Hebrew synagogue has been organized in Atlanta and will hold its first service Tuesday evening. It will be known as the Congregation Anshe-Sfard. Its temporary location is at 344 Woodward avenue.

The congregation will be strictly orthodox and will carry out the traditional unity of spirit and optimism of the Hebrew faith. The form of service will be that of the Spanish Hebrew church, which differs from the other synagogues in Atlanta.

Services will begin Tuesday evening with the feast of the week, and there will be services Wednesday morning, Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. On Thursday evening a malave-malke, or festivity, will be held, at which time the new members will be introduced to one another. The public are cordially invited.

The congregation plans in the next five or six months to erect a fine synagogue in a central location which will be an architectural beauty. Over one hundred members of the Hebrew faith have joined in the past few days, and the membership is expected to rapidly increase.

PICNIC OF TWO SCHOOLS POSTPONED TO NEXT WEEK

First Christian-Second Baptist Joint Celebration Is Delayed by Weather

Announcement was made Tuesday morning that on account of the unseasonable weather the picnic long awaited by the members of the city's two champion Sunday schools—the First Christian and the Second Baptist—had been postponed. It was to have been held Tuesday afternoon. Instead it will be held some afternoon next week. C. V. LeCraw superintendent of the First Christian, made the announcement in behalf of the executive committee representing the two schools.

"Definite statement of the day when the picnic is to be held, will be made in each school next Sunday morning," said he.

TELEPHONE TAKEN OUT: ASKS $10,000 DAMAGES

James J. Flowers, a commission man, 234 Edgewood avenue, has brought suit for $10,000 damage against the Southern Bell Telephone company.

Flowers told superior court that during the month of January, 1913, his telephone had been out of commission for four days, and when he sought to deduct an amount for the loss of service the telephone company refused to consent. On his refusal to pay for the four days lost the telephone was taken out and his business damaged.

COUNTY SCHOOL TEACHERS TO STAND EXAMINATIONS

These Examinations Will Be Given in Every County Next Friday and Saturday

Examinations for teachers in the state's schools, will be held in every county in Georgia on next Friday and Saturday. These examinations will qualify the teachers who are to be employed in the schools next year.

State School Superintendent M. L. Brittain has written to every county school superintendent outlining the examinations to be given. He concludes his letters to the superintendents as follows:

"It is especially to be desired that the examination be above reproach from the standpoint of good order and honesty. Occasionally criticism is heard as to carelessness in these particulars in a few localities. If communication is allowed and there is careless supervision the results obtained are of little value, some systems will be unwilling to accept the certificates, and our whole educational work suffers in the estimation of all good citizens. The superintendent has the right to pay for all the help needed to supervise the examination properly, and there should be no careless and indifference at this point.

"Papers are to be graded by the superintendent as usual. They will, of course, consult with the state department about the grading of high school papers where necessary."

UNSWEETENED COFFEE AROUSED DUSKY'S IRE

His wife's refusal to sweeten his coffee aroused Sam Ware, a colored resident of Darktown, to such a pitch Sunday evening that he armed himself with a large revolver and a long knife and chased her out of their happy home.

Thus armed, he held the fort against her return for two hours or until she called the police. Emergency men who answered her call, found Sam firmly intrenched just inside the front door. He explained that the revolver wouldn't shoot and that the knife was too dull to cut. City Recorder Nash R. Broyles fined him $25 and costs, however, for disturbing the peace.

studied music abroad for some time and taught in Atlanta until a few weeks ago, when she went to New York for the summer. Elinor, another sister, is a graduate of Radcliffe and is now on the faculty of Sophie Newcomb college, New Orleans. Theodore Behre, the brother, and the roommate of Mr. MacGowan, married a Boston girl last year and now lives in the north.

Edna is a graduate of the Girls' High school, and according to Atlanta friends, was in her senior year at Radcliffe. She herself is a talented musician and writer.

EXAMINE APPLICANTS FOR POSTMASTER AT BOLTON

An examination to fill the vacancy in the position of fourthclass postmaster of class A at Bolton, Ga., will be held in Atlanta June 28, announces the United States civil service commission.

The minimum age limit is twenty-one years, and the applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the Bolton postoffice. Applications should be filed with the commission at Washington at least seven days before the date of examination.

FATHER'S DAY OBSERVED AT BAPTIST TABERNACLE

There have been mothers' days and children's days, but it remained for the members of the Baptist Tabernacle to inaugurate a day especially for fathers. It was celebrated Sunday morning at the church, and red roses in button holes were the insignias of honor.

Appropriate exercises were carried out. A feature of it was the program enacted by ninety little children from the junior department under the direction of Mr. Bear. Miss Verna Ruth Harris gave a reading, and Mrs. Charles Bellingrath sang. The speakers were D. W. T. Jones and Dr. E. M. Poteat.

Fathers' day will be an annual event at the Tabernacle. On June 27 a day for babies will be held there.

FOUNDERS' DAY, TUESDAY, TECH CELEBRANTS BUSY

Students to Have Things Their Own Way in Afternoon With Unique Stunts

A. R. Colcord, president of the alumni association of the Georgia School of Technology, opened the celebration of Founders' day Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock with an address of welcome to the old "grads" and to the men who now are attending the institution.

Tech men of long ago shared the program with graduates of a few hours, stories of school life many years ago found response in the hearts of the young men who know Georgia Tech only as the great college it is today, and not what it was twenty-five years ago.

After the alumni meeting, which took place in the Tech Y. M. C. A., Dr. L. S. Hopkins, the first president of the school, and Judge N. E. Harris, of Macon, president of the board of trustees, delivered addresses. They were joined by other speakers, who years ago came to the aid of tech and placed it upon the firm financial basis where it now stands.

FOUNDERS' DAY ORATION

The Founders' day oration will be delivered at the Grand theater Tuesday night by C. Alphonso Smith, of the University of Berlin, and one of the foremost educators in the world. His fame is international. The graduating class and faculty will attend these exercises in a body, and from there will adjourn to the governor's mansion, where they will be the guests of Governor and Mrs. Joseph M. Brown at a reception.

Class day will be celebrated in the afternoon by the students in a big rally on the campus. The pageant, planned for some time, promises to be the most picturesque ever presented in Atlanta. Decked in gala attire, the student body will gather for the exercises, opening with the class day history by George M. Hope, jr., of Atlanta. The prophecy will be read by Harleston Hall, of Atlanta.

It is on this occasion that the senior mantle will be draped about the waiting shoulders of the anxious juniors by Walter R. Boyd, of Atlanta. Austin Winn, jr., of Eastman, Ga., then will deliver the memorial from the graduating class to the faculty and college. Tech's acceptance will be made by Dr. Samuel S. Wallace, head of the department of English. The valedictory of Robert L. Hughes will conclude the formalities.

WHEN FUN BEGINS.

Then will begin the real fun. One thousand students will re-enact all of the campus capers of the past year. Attired in costumes to represent the professors, antique seniors will essay caricatures of the faculty. Prominent students will come in for a grilling, but the greater play will be on the "profs."

From the campus the costumed students again will parade Peachtree and Whitehall streets. The leaders of the burlesque, A. L. Loeb, C. C. Ogg, E. H. Arrington, Jack Phinizy and George M. Hope, have some surprises in store for Atlantians. They will be sprung during the march from North avenue across the Peachtree-Whitehall viaduct.

Ingenious minds have been hard at work planning something absolutely new and original to show the people, and one has only to be along the line of march to witness them.

JUNIOR PROM

There was one big feature of the junior prom at Tech Monday night that attracted the attention of not only those so fortunate as to be present at the crystal palace, but of downtown Atlantans as well.

The juniors of next year kept the guests in an uproar with their initiation of several new members into Kosme, an honor society of which the basis of eligibility is the standing in the various student activities.

The men, clad in fancy and burlesque costumes, first paraded the business section of the city, arousing much curiosity through their motley appearance and unusual stunts. Later they reached the dance hall and in their own peculiar style "put through" the new members of the society.

Cartridges for the National Shoot

As a result of the tests recently conducted by the Government Board of Experts to select the ammunition to be used in the coming big International shoot to be held at Camp Perry in August and September, Winchester rifle and revolver cartridges have added another big triumph to their long list. On account of their superior shooting in the 200 Meter test, Winchester rifle cartridges will be used by the expert riflemen of the world who take part in the International Matches, and Winchester revolver cartridges will be used in the National Matches to be held about the same time. In the tests of revolver ammunition, Winchester cartridges not only outshot all other makes, but made a new World's Record for accuracy. (Advt.)

DR. HALL SPEAKS ON THE PEACE MOVEMENT

Dr. J. J. Hall, former pastor of the First Baptist church of Fayetteville, N. C., addressed the Atlanta Baptist ministers' conference meeting at the First Baptist church Monday morning on the subject of the relation of the church to world-wide peace.

Dr. Hall is a director of the South Atlantic states division of the American Peace society. His address was one of the best ever delivered before the local association.

He showed what the attitude of Christ toward war was, and said that Christians since time immemorial had been opposed to war. If there is to be any cessation of battle, he declared, the spirit of Christ will have to prevail in the heart of humanity.

LEAP FROM TRESTLE INTO RIVER SAVES THIS WOMAN FROM DEATH

2—She makes a fruitless effort to escape.
3—Realizing that the train will reach her before she can get off the trestle, she throws her hat down and prepares to leap.
6—She drifts nearly 200 feet down stream.
7—L. Harrison swimming to the woman's rescue.
8—Spot where Harrison was fishing when he heard Mrs. Smith scream, and where he brought her safely to shore.

Mrs. Ethel Smith Lies at Her Rawson Street Home, a Nervous Wreck, Since She Plunged 100 Feet Into the Waters of the Chattahoochee Monday Morning to Escape the Wheels of a Freight Train

Three pictures flash continuously across the window of her brain, an endless stretch of gleaming rails and crossties, the roaring demon of a freight train looming down upon her, far below a muddy sea of waters.

She feels herself falling, falling, until consciousness is muffled in a black pall. Then she wakes, and again the pictures come, the infinite crossties, the looming freight, the tangle of angry waters, the falling, falling, and the shock of submersion.

She is living again the wild terror of her leap into the Chattahoochee Monday morning, a dizzy whirl of 100 feet from the gaunt skeleton of the trestle to the yellow flood below. Her piteous moans are ever of the crashing wheels of the freight which caused her to attempt a leap for life.

Overhead the sky was a melancholy dun, gray clouds piling against each from horizon to horizon. The wind whipped at her skirts, clutched with icy fingers at the purple plumes on the frail straw hat. The footing on the wet wood of the trestle was uncertain and more than once she stumbled.

SHE HEARS THE TRAIN.

In the very center of the long reach of gaping ties, the shriek of the freight's whistle reached her. What must have been her feelings? Not a human being in sight save some fishermen far up the river easily paddling their way through the buffeting water, not a chance to reach the end of the bridge where already the rumble of the grinding wheels could be heard.

There was one hope, the river. She could see the muddy water sweep beneath the trestle far below, she could hear it chuckle as it sucked around the massive piers.

The freight train thundered past, the purple plumes of the gay straw hat were crushed into the soaking wood.

It was a little thing that saved her, a cheap yellow raincoat that tore loose from the refractory button and spread out from her shoulders like a huge bird. Acting as a parachute, the raincoat broke the fall, she struck the water, sank, rose again, and was driven 200 feet down-stream, turning over and over in the swirl of the rapids.

RESCUED BY FISHERMAN.

L. D. Harrison, fishing patiently from a gray rock, saw the flash of the rain coat sweeping toward him, and dived into the water, rescuing Mrs. Smith by dragging her unconscious body to the shore.

When the doctors examined her they found that not one single bone had been fractured in the terific leap from the trestle. The body was covered with bruises, and the shock of the icy water has prostrated Mrs. Smith. She will eventually recover, the doctors say, but for many days to come she must lie on the white bed, her hands picking nervously at the covers, and only three pictures to occupy her, the stretch of rails and crossties, the charging freight, and the sea of muddy waters far below.

Here, you can buy a good diamond by paying only one-fifth cash and settle the balance in easy monthly payments.

Should you wish a diamond ring at $125.00, the cash payment required would be $25.00. The balance of $100.00 could be settled in ten equal monthly payments. We charge only 6 per cent simple interest, which figures $2.75. This would make the monthly payments $10.27 each.

It will pay you to buy now in this way rather than wait until you can pay all cash. Diamonds are going to be advanced in price in the next few months. You can save fully 20 per cent by buying at the present prices.

Selections sent on approval anywhere.

CITY NOW BUYING FIRE HOSE ON COMPETING BIDS

Long List of Proposals Canvassed Monday Morning by Board of Firemasters

The city board of firemasters spent almost the entire forenoon Monday in canvassing bids on hose for the fire department, and at the conclusion of their deliberations were still a long way from a decision as to the best bid to accept.

It is the first time in years that competitive bids have been obtained on fire hose, although the city charter requires competitive bids on every purchase amounting to more than $500. Bids were obtained in this purchase as the result of Mayor Woodward's attack on the fire department early in the year.

In all, twelve companies submitted bids, and of this number, five companies were represented by agents who appeared before the board.

The board finally referred all the bids to a subcommittee to be tabulated, and will meet again Wednesday afternoon to go over this tabulation.

Although bids were asked on 1,200 feet, the city will probably purchase about 2,000 feet.

WRONG FIGURES PRINTED IN SUNDAY SCHOOL TABLE

In the table of Sunday school attendance figures printed in The Journal Monday afternoon the error was made of leaving out altogether the name of the First Baptist Sunday school, and inserting the figures of that school for those of the First Christian.

The table should have read with regard to those two as follows:

First Christian, church membership, 1,200, attendance year ago, 360, attendance Sunday 932. First Baptist, church membership, 1,100, attendance year ago 354, attendance Sunday 384.

The impressive fact has been shown by these tables that Atlanta's Sunday schools have advanced notably in attendance over last year's records.

NO SUBSTITUTE COULD DO THIS.

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. P. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble. My father-in-law, now past 93 years, has taken them and they have added years to his life." LAW SCHOOL GRADUATES SWORN IN AS LAWYERS

Some thirty graduates of the Atlanta Law school, carrying their diplomas in their hands, were sworn in as attorneys at law by Judge W. D. Ellis, in first division of superior court today.

The ceremony was brief and sandwiched in between two divorce plaintiffs who were eager to tell the jury why they should be granted a decree. The oath of attorney was administered, by Tom Jefferies, deputy court clerk, and a short address was made to the graduates by Judge Ellis.

Three eccentric comedians in a snappy act open this week's bill at the Forsyth. The Steiner trio, comedy bar gymnastics, apparently experienced little trouble in putting the audience in good humor to enjoy the balance of the program, which is a firstclass one with the exception of a mediocre playlet of the old-time style, but it had the redeeming feature of being short.

Stella Maye and Margie Addis, two comely young women, appear in a duo that has plenty of ginger and comedy. They get personal with the orchestra, but leave the audience alone. Their act went well.

Travato, an eccentric violinist, has the most enjoyable act on the bill. He keeps his violin between his legs, and plays classical numbers with ease, and then strikes up one of the latest ragtime songs. His imitations of cat calls and the whistling of those in the audience, from pit to dome, brought down the house.

Roehmms athletic girls have the honor of appearing in big type. Five girls do a bit of fencing, sparring, wrestling and bag punching. The wrestlers are two pretty young women who really work, to all appearances, and give a real exhibition of the half-Nelson. The bag puncher looked mighty like a man in famale garb.

Chick Sale furnished twenty minutes of continual laughter in his impersonations of a whole school at commencement day. His changes are wonderful, and his act is clean and one that can be appreciated by the young and the old alike.

John and May Burke appear in "The Rag Time Soldier," which gives the man an opportunity to do some good stunts on the piano. His playing was the feature of the act, and it was as comical as it was musical.

Gordon Pickens and company complete the bill.

Atlanta Fishermen Back From Florida Report Fine Sport

Some of the best fish tales yet heard in Atlanta, have been brought back by a party of three young men who have just finished a three weeks' trip to Cortez, Fla. They are Marshll and Harold McKenzie and Robert Smith.

The trio went to Cortez from Atlanta in an automobile. They say they completed the trip there and back of 1,500 miles with but one puncture, coming from Cortez to Atlanta in twenty-three hours and forty minutes.

The party reports a wealth of fish, of all sorts and sizes, abounding in the gulf around Cortez. They say that they caught eight shark the biggest one weighing 250 pounds and measuring eight feet seven inches from tip to tail. One tarpon fell to their lot, they report, weighing 100 pounds and being an even six feet long.

According to this trio the greatest fishing was theirs one day when a party of five went fifteen miles out into the gulf and ran into a school of "gruper" and "grunt." What the grunt fish is the fishermen alone can tell. On this trip they say they caught 250 pounds of gruper and grunt in forty-five minutes, averaging about two and one-half fish a minute.

AUCTION

In buying suburban property usually keen foresight is necessary.

Not so with the 25 lots that will soon be offered in the Ansley Park Annex.

No foresight is necessary here.

For the reason that this section is developed for'd and aft, and to the lea and to the starboard.

All real estate judgment, whether from the layman or the real estate expert, will quickly tell you that this section is now logical.

These lots will undoubtedly be great bargains.

Watch the date so that you can come to an auction where we will sell a lot a minute. They are so good they will go that quickly.

The Answer Book As An Investment in the $7,000 Booklovers' Campaign

Looking at the matter of buying an Answer Book to submit your answers in The Journal's Booklovers' Campaign from a business standpoint, you cannot fairly decide against getting one.

You are certainly in this great home game to submit the full result of your skill and not one-fifth of it. As the rules allow you the right to ten answers with a picture and coupon for every answer, or only one of each picture, and the Answer Book only costing you 80c at the office or 90c by mail, it is certainly to your interest to get one of them before it is too late.

To submit 750 answers under the old system would cost you $15.00. If you use the Answer Book your only expense will be the cost of pictures 36 to 75 inclusive, as we give the Nos. 1 to 35 free with the Answer Book.

As The Journal is giving $7,000 worth of prizes in this delightful campaign there is no good reason why you cannot come in a winner. Don't forget that The Journal does not ask you to solicit or beg your friends to vote for you in order to win in this campaign. Just select the most correct titles to the 75 prize pictures that The Journal is publishing and you will receive $1,000 in gold. If you do not get first prize you certainly ought to get one of the 747 prizes that will be distributed among Journal readers at the close of the campaign.

See the prize pictures on page 2, and read details of the plan. Then come in and get our new catalogue and our four-page circular giving you full details. Get in the game now, while you still have plenty of time to select titles.

You will find the Booklovers' Game the most enjoyable one you ever took part in.

GOVERNOR-ELECT SLATON'S OFFICIAL FAMILY

When Governor-elect John M. Slaton takes over the state's helm on Saturday, June 28, his official family—sometimes referred to as his office force—will consist of Major A. H. Ulm, executive secretary—Colonel Jesse G. Perry, private secretary; Dr. I. S. Hopkins, warrant and requisition clerk, and Miss Alma Norris, stenographer.

With one exception these are the same officials appointed by Governor Slaton in 1911 when he was serving as acting governor, and this exception is Dr. Hopkins, who will succeed Colonel W. R. Power, of Marietta, an appointee of Governor Brown, as warrant and requisition clerk.

Governor Slaton has not yet made any announcement concerning the personnel of his official family, but it is known that the above information is authentic and can be relied upon.

GEORGIA JURIES AGAINST CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

887 Convicts Are Serving Penitentiary Sentences in Georgia for Murder

It is quite evident from the annual report just compiled by the state prison commission that Georgia juries and judges are not partial to capital punishment even in cases of persons convicted of murder. Only a very small percentage of the convicted murderers are hanged; the vast majority are given penitentiary sentences which in most instances are for life.

This report covering the year ending May 31, 1913, shows that of the 2,897 felony convicts in the penitentiary 87 are there for murder, 416 for manslaughter, 298 for attempted murder and 5 for being accessories to murders.

Last year there were 812 murder convicts, 365 for manslaughter, 310 for attempted murder and 4 for accessory to murder.

Next in number to the murder convicts comes those who were sent up for burglary, of which there at present 714 in the penitentiary. Last year there were 567.

The report shows that there are 123 persons in the penitentiary for larceny, 109 for robbery, 62 for forgery, 15 for perjury, 11 for bigamy, 7 for attempting to wreck railroad trains, 5 for wrecking railroad trains, 1 for attempting to wreck street cars, 2 for mayhem. The others are scattered through the category of various felony offenses.

898 LIFE CONVICTS.

There are 898 life convicts in the penitentiary, 4 for 40 years, 5 for 30 years, 1 for 25 years, 236 for 20 years, 172 for 15 years, 290 for 10 years and 323 for 5 years. Others' terms range between the number of years named.

Of the 2,897 convicts, 2,280 are serving their first term, 410 their second term, 140 their third term, 43 their fourth term, 3 their fifth term, 10 their sixth term, 8 their seventh term, 1 his eighth term and 2 their eleventh term.

Two of these convicts are but 12 years of age, 2 are 13 years, 3 are 14 years, 11 are 15 years, 25 are 16 years, 39 are 17 years, 85 are 18 years, 91 are 19 years, 123 are 20 years, 160 are 21 years, 175 are 24 years, 151 are 25 years and 5 are 75 years. The ages of the remaining convicts range between 26 and 75 years.

More than 50 per cent of the felony convicts are married. To be exact, 1,645 of the 2,897 are married, while 1,252 are single or unmarried.

The total number of white convicts is 360 and the total number of blacks 2,537. Of the whites 289 can read and write, 17 can read, but cannot write, and 54 are illiterate. The percentage of the whites that can read and write is 80.23; of those who are illiterate, 15.

Number of blacks who can read and write, 1,637; read only, 149; illiterate, 851. Percentage of blacks who can read and write, 60.59; illiterate, 33.54.

TWENTY PREACHER CONVICTS.

There are 20 preachers among the convicts, 5 school teachers, 7 policemen, 13 nurses, 7 merchants, 7 drummers, 18 clerks, 15 chambermaids, 17 bartenders, 23 blacksmiths and 33 barbers. There is one convict from each of the following occupations: Accountant, artist, broommaker, coachman, distiller, dairyman, deputy sheriff, harnessmaker, lawyer, lumberman, pilot, telegrapher, "tramp," tinsmith, watchmaker, dyer, jeweler, sawyer, moulder, veterinary surgeon and window decorator. Those unenumerated are scattered through the various trades and professions.

During last year 762 convicts were committed to the penitentiary, 47 convicts were paroled, 361 discharged, and 2 pardoned. Those commuted by the governor are included in the list of those discharged.

Forty-nine convicts died during the year, 313 escaped, 106 were recaptured, and four of those paroled were returned to prison.

His department has exhausted itself in an effort to fix upon Frank an immoral life, on the theory that a violator of the seventh commandment was likewise a murderer. This effort has failed. No man in Atlanta has had his moral character subjected to such a test and there is not in the whole city of Atlanta a half-dozen men who could have more successfully stood the test.

His employes, without a single exception, have made affidavits to his uprightness. Lanford's department subpenaed every one of them before the coroner's jury, and after keeping them more than two days did not dare to swear a single one of them.

Before and after the coroner's verdict this whole city has been combed with a fine-tooth comb and a like combing has been applied to Brooklyn, the city of his birth, to find something against his moral character. With what result? The silence of the detective department gives the answer.

Lanford's conduct in connection with the woman Formby and the negro Conley shows that he was stung by Felder's charge that he was favoring Frank, or that for some other reason he was temporarily out of his head.

He swallowed whole the statements of this Formby woman, bearing upon their face the clear proof that they were by no means to be believed.

This woman was not unknown to Lanford. She did not entrap him by appearing under the guise of a truthful, sober, virtuous woman. But so absorbed was he, either in trying to disprove Felder's charge or in the foolish pride of opinion that he accepted without doubt or fair investigation the drivel and nonsense of this woman.

LANFORD'S FOOLISH THEORY.

So far beside himself did he become that he had the folly to furnish to the papers, based upon this woman's statement, the theory that Frank, during the night of the murder, wishing to rid himself of the body, was seeking to do so in a room rented from this woman.

The folly and difficulties of the theory did not disturb Lanford. They would have disturbed anybody but Lanford. His insane desire to justify himself cleared the matter of all difficulties and follies.

If the case of the Formby woman did not clear Lanford of Felder's charge, that of the Conley negro ought to have done so.

Conley is a very ordinary, ignorant, brutal negro, not unacquainted with the stockade. His actions immediately after the crime were suspicious. So much so that they attracted the attention of the employes of the factory and occasioned general comment. In spite of these facts, Conley was not taken into custody until several days after the crime and not then until the employes of the factory caught him suspiciously washing a shirt and as a result reported him to the police. He was not brought before the coroner's jury and practically no notice was taken of him in that investigation. So swiftly was Lanford and his associates pursuing Frank that they ran over this negro, standing in their path with the marks of guilt clearly upon him.

Finally, the pressure of public suspicion brought this negro to Lanford's attention. Conley began to talk and negro-like to talk so as to protect himself and as a means thereto to cast suspicion upon some one else. Ordinarily the detectives could be trusted not to aid the negro in an effort to clear himself by placing the crime on a white man, but in this case it is to be feared that the negro was not discouraged. Lanford had finally banked all his sense, all his reputation as a man and a politician upon Frank's guilt and it would be remarkable if the discouraged this negro from involving Frank. If Lanford and his followers had acted wisely, and kept open minds seeking only the murderer and not seeking to vindicate their announced opinions the negro would have by this told the whole truth.

CONLEY'S MANY STATEMENTS.

Conley made one statement. It did not meet the announced opinions of Lanford. He made another. This second was not up to the mark, it did not sufficiently show Frank's guilt. Another was made, which was supposed to be nearer the mark. Whereupon there was great rejoicing. Forgetting all others, this last statement—reached through such great tribulations—was proclaimed the truth, the last truth and that there would be no other statement.

The detectives had at last got the statement which they thought sustained their views, saved their reputations and insured their places.

But what a statement! So full of contradictions, so evidently made for self protection and wherein was so easily apparent the guiding hand of detectives. If Lanford meant to be fair, if he was only seeking the truth, why did he rush into print with the assertion that this statement was the truth and therefore of necessity the last? Might he not in decency have left this negro to his own will unbiased by the opinion that the statement was true and the last to be given? Who knows but that this negro might have given numerous other statements if he had not been so heavily handicapped by Lanford's opinion.

"LANFORD'S SUCKING BOTTLE."

The truth is this negro is not to give any other or further statement if the detective department can prevent, unless made under their supervision and direction. He must, at all times, be under the influence and control of Lanford. He must have Lanford's sucking bottle at all times to his lips, sucking Lanford's views and theories of this case. The ragged places in his statement must be darned, the torn places patched and no one but the detective department could be trusted to do that.

No one has been rude enough to bring this negro before the grand jury nor indeed to make any charge against him.

After the statement of this negro and in view of all the evidence which so strongly points to him as the slayer of little Mary Phagan, is the grand jury to leave him without charge or investigation to be wet nursed by Lanford until Frank's trial?

Or is it the purpose to keep the negro's case from the grand jury in the nature of an offered reward to spur him on to swear his worst against the white man?

Would it not be just and decent to bring this negro's case before the grand jury and let that body hear his confession so that it can then decide whether the negro should then be indicted?

In the shadow of this great crime let there be no thimble-rigging; let no single fact be concealed; let no man's place or reputation stand in the way of the fullest, fairest investigation.

Respectfully,

LUTHER Z. ROSSER.

Two Women Tell How They Escaped the Surgeon's Knife by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Swarthmore, Penn. — "For fifteen years I suffered untold agony, and for one period of nearly two years I had hemorrhages and the doctors told me I would have to undergo an operation, but I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am in good health now. I am all over the change of Life and cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too highly. Every woman should take it at that time. I recommend it to both old and young for female troubles." — Mrs. EMILY SUMMERSGILL, Swarthmore, Pa.

Baltimore, Md. — "My troubles began with the loss of a child, and I had hemorrhages for four months. The doctors said an operation was necessary, but I dreaded it and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has made me a well woman and I feel strong and do my own work."— Mrs. J. R. PICKING, 1260 Sargent St., Baltimore, Md.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, is it not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

Jacobs' Liver Salt On Arising

and You'll Enjoy Your Breakfast

No appetite in the morning? Bilious? Headache? Best thing in the world for You is Jacobs' Liver Salt.

Bad breath, biliousness, constipation, flatulence, daytime drowsiness, wakefulness at night, mean FOOD-POISONING. Undigested food, fermented, is doling out poison to the system.

Jacobs' Liver Salt instantly flushes the alimentary tract with water, sending a cleansing stream through it from all parts of the system. Packed, clogging matter is loosened and with the fermentation washed away, pressure is removed, liver and kidneys resume their natural cleansing processes of elimination. Keeping Stocks Bright and Fresh Keeps the Silk Section An Interesting Spot

No lagging, no resting on our oars here!

There is a cheerful air of "busy-ness" about the silk section that always accompanies new and bright merchandise.

For new silks are arriving with splendid regularity, which doubtless will prove to be a matter of much satisfaction to the woman who wants another dress, waist or the like. She will not, as is too often the case in some stores at this season, have to choose from the tag ends of silks selected months ago.

Right now of particular merit are—

New Silk Serges

One of the most serviceable and wanted silks for summer, they weather the weather, they are cool, they shed dust, they tailor beautiful, they may be had here in about any color you might want—including navy, brown, taupe and black.

36 inches wide at $1.50 a yard.

New Silk Poplins

The call for corded silks seems to grow louder. Our answer is new silk poplins—that drape most gracefully—in navy, Copenhagen, wistaria brown, tan, green, apricot and rose. And they have that fine sheen that shows the fabric is all pure silk. Width 44 inches, price $1.50 a yard.

New Crepe de Chines

An unsually fine quality—heavy and soft—of black crepe de chine has just come in and is marked at $1.50 a yard. It is 40 inches wide.

And while we are told that crepe de chines are still very scarce it would seem that any woman would have little trouble finding what she wants with all these colors to choose from—navy, light blue, pigeon pink, taupe, yellow, white and black—width pink, taupe yellow, white and black—width 40 inches, price $1.75 a yard.

New Crepe Meteors

Of fine texture and that rich lustrous finish that every woman likes—these in a range of colors that would do credit to the first spring announcement. Widths 42 to 44 inches, priced from $2.00 to $3.00 a yard.

$1.00 Silk Shirtings 79c

Thirty-three inches wide, white grounds with gray, tan, black and navy stripes of various widths across them. A woman will hardly have to be told they are $1.00 silks, nor that such a quality is sure to return from the tub unfaded. Also the 85c quality, 33 inches wide is 69c.

The Business Outlook In the Southeast.

The cheering report rendered by the various local superintendents of Bradstreet's Southeastern agencies who are now convened in Atlanta, their division headquarters, would turn the melancholy Jacques himself into a business optimist. These men have rare opportunities as well as an established reputation for gauging the condition and the prospect of commercial affairs. Stationed at every city of importance in the Southeast and connected through divers channels with the total business life of their respective districts, they are in direct and constant touch with with developments of every kind. They are trained students of facts and it is upon facts alone that their reports are based.

When, therefore, these agents declare, and bring proof to show, that conditions in the Southeast are promising for every field of material endeavor, we have good reason to be confident of the year's progress and results. They testify without exception that the present status of crops forecast a goodly harvest, that building trades are active and that in each of their communities a spirit of hardy and hopeful enterprise is astir. Mr. J. E. C. Pedder, of Atlanta, division superintendent, strikes the keynote of his official associates when he says:

"For the past two years the southeastern states have had a particularly hard time, in fact have passed through one of the most crucial periods in their history. In the early spring conditions did not look very favorable for an average crop this year but for the past two or three weeks the southeastern states have had good rains, seed have germinated well and the land has been well cultivated. Crops are now looking much better. Our grain crop this spring was a very good one. Notwithstanding a momentary depression, this section has gone ahead by leaps and bounds. More developments in all lines have been noted, and more railroads are under construction. As far as Atlanta is concerned, we have broken all records. I do not see any cloud on the financial horizon, and am looking forward to a fine business this fall with confidence."

This estimate is borne out by the reports from each of the local superintendents. It is shown, for instance, that in Birmingham there are now under construction buildings which represent an aggregate cost of more than ten million dollars and that Alabama is today making pig iron at the rate of two million, one hundred and fifty-two thousand, seven hundred and sixty-four tons per annum, the greatest figure in the history of that industry; while on the heel of this record comes the announcement of the American Steel and Wire company that it will expend eighteen million dollars in completing its great plant. The Jacksonville agent relates that the commerce of that port is expanding at a phenomenal rate and that despite the large extensions recently made to the dock and terminal facilities, they are still inadequate to meet the growing demands upon them, so that the city itself has undertaken the construction of additional docks to cost a million and a half dollars. The completion of a forty-thousand horse-power electric plant on the Savannah river will usher Augusta into a new manufacturing era. In that city, several ten-story office buildings are in process of construction, work on the levee is under way and the grain crops of the outlying country are reported to be larger than for many years past. In Chattanooga all factories are running full capacity, good wages are maintained and bank clearings have steadily increased.

These are but a few mong many striking instances which show that the Southeast is pressing steadily forward upon firm ground. In Georgia there is particular cause for confidence, as is witnessed by the progress of Macon, Savannah, Albany, Columbus, Rome and other towns independent of Atlanta and also by the substantial conditions of agricultural interests throughout the State.

Indeed, all natural circumstances indicate that the year 1913 will be one of rich returns the nation over. There is promise of a record-breaking wheat crop and of abundant yields of all kinds of foodstuffs. That industries are thriving is evidenced by the fact that the transportation companies have a greater volume of traffic than they can well handle. There are, to be sure, occasional signs of financial stringency but in so far as the great underlying sources of prosperity are concerned they stand without impairment or peril.

Superintendent Pedder's declaration that he sees no cloud on the business horizon is, interestingly enough, almost the very phrase employed a few weeks ago by James J. Hill in an interview, scouting the idea that there was any occasion for commercial alarm or distrust. It is a significant fact that men who are in a position to observe accurately and to predict advisedly agree that American business today is upon solid ground.

The very circumstance that they think thus and that public opinion is attuned accordingly is within itself assuring; for, those periods of financial depression which we call "panics," or "near-panics" are in many, if not most instances, due to a state of mind rather than to any material cause. The psychologists have often debated whether a man, upon seeing a bear, becomes frightened and runs, or first runs and then becomes frightened, and the weight of opinion, we believe, inclines to the latter view. Certain it is that nine times out of ten, a country gets "panicky" from running and not from any real or insuperable danger. The heartening fact in the United States today is that nobody who thinks at all is thinking of running. The great rank and file of business men know that the sources of prosperity are undisturbed. They are keeping their heads and are going their ways in confidence and cheer.

The weather is fine for senate discussion of the wool schedule.

Our Brazilian Visitor.

One of the most interesting and distinguished visitors the United States has recently had the honor of entertaining is Dr. Lauro Muller, minister of foreign affairs of the Republic of Brazil. He reaches this country today for a sojourn of some three weeks during which time he will be the guest, in turn, of the President, the Secretary of State, the Director General of the Panama American Union and of various civic and social organizations.

Particular interest attaches to Dr. Muller's coming for the reason that he is returning a similar visit made to Brazil in 1906 by Hon. Elihu Root, who was then Secretary of State. As the representative of this Government Mr. Root was received with distinctive cordiality, which has continued to grow and to manifest itself in fruitful relationships of commerce and good will between the peoples of both nations. The presence of the premier of the Brazilian cabinet will afford our Government and citizens an opportunity to show their hearty interest in the affairs of their Latin American neighbors in general and of the great Republic of Brazil in particular. Between these rapidly growing nations and our own, there should exist a spirit of mutual helpfulness; and the surest foundation for such a feeling is a thorough understanding, one of the other. Hence the significance of Dr. Muller's visit and, indeed, of all such visits whether they be those of State officials or of parties of citizens. It is a gratifying circumstance that many civic or commercial organizations in the United States are now sending expeditions to Central and South America; it is to be hoped that similar parties in this direction will become frequent.

Dr. Muller was born in the State of Santa Catharina, of German parents. He was one of the leaders in establishing the Republic and a signer of its constitution. When only twenty-six years old he was made governor of his native State and since then he has been continuously in public service. Especially notable has been his influence in the promotion of scientific agriculture and the construction of railroads.

Let's Look Before We Leap.

The State of Tennessee expects to open bids this month for eleven and a half million dollars of four per cent forty-year bonds. Dispatches say, however, that Governor Hooper and other officials, upon canvassing the financial field in New York, have been advised that there is little or no chance for marketing the bonds at the present time, the general opinion being that short-term notes could be more easily sold. It is possible, therefore, that future negotiations may be directed to that end.

Now that the question of a bond issue for Atlanta is being discussed, Council will do well to consider the Tennessee situation. Is this a favorable time for a large offering of municipal bonds? Could they be easily and advantageously disposed of? Any doubt in this connection should be removed before the subject is pursued further.

Before the City thinks of embarking on so serious a venture, it should have definite and ample assurance as to where it will land.

Any man who would jilt a girl deserves to be married by her successor.

If we could look into the future we would probably find it just as unsatisfactory.

Fear is a terrible thing, and even with the city's permission no man will admit in the game warden's hearing how many fish he caught at Piedmont Park.

COLLINS TO GAYNOR TO US

(But only a few among us are able to enjoy listening to grand opera music or the reading of Milton's "Paradise Lost." Music is the expression or voice of poetry—light music of light poetry, and heavy and intricate music of like poetry. When we read again Collins' delightful "Ode to the Passions" we fully realize this. You remember how it begins:

When Music, heavenly maid, was young,
While yet in early Greece she sung, etc.

—The mayor's letter to Mrs. Henrietta Spader, opposing the suggestion that classical music be played at the park concerts.)

When Music, heavenly maid, was young
There was no Gotterdammerung;
Debussy didn't sigh and sob
When Music was a Grecian squab.
Methinks I hark to Xenophon
Sing out "When I Get You Alone,"
And Aeschylus and Sophocles
Sing "Suwanee Shores" and "R. E. Lees."
And I suppose that hoi polloi
Sang rags of wild Hellenic joy,
And I imagine Athens had
A mayor knowing good from bad,
Who kept the public's morals pure
In Music and in Lit-rachoor.
And had the selfsame public strung—
When Music, Heavenly maid, was young.

Old Grant Rice allows that watching the Yanks' games is better than reading the Gaynor epistles. "That sport," he yawns, "doesn't even keep you out in the open air."

THE DIARY OF OUR OWN SAMUEL PEPYS.

June 4.—Home early in the afternoon and starting to labour. I heard a band to play, and from the casement I saw the girls in the yard at Barnard college, frolicking and marching and playing and all manner of rag, tag and football. All very gally drest, some from one class and some from another and the prettiest methought were the maidens from the class of 1914 and the graduates from 1962. But the band that played was the worst playing band ever I heard play, all off the key and in false temp, and it did jar upon my ears dreadfully. In the evening to W. Heimann the chyrurgeon's for dinner and he told me many things about medicine and how the hospital system is far from perfect, which I believe. Insomuch as most organizations I know of are mismanaged and run with a shameful wastefulness, even great metropolitan journals I do have knowledge of. How now, quota one, when I say that, haply you could manage a great publick print better than others, whomto I cry. Ay, that I could.

8.—Up and to my office, and after fighting with the printing-men, to the playhouse to see "Iolanthe, very fine too. Mr. Hopper droller than in anything ever I have seen him do. And Mistress Cecil Cunningham and Mr. MacFarlane sang "None Shall Part Us," as fine a lyrick as ever wrote and ending

Thou the stream and I the willow—
Thou the sculptor; I the clay—
Thou the ocean; I the billow—
Thou the sunrise. I the day!

Between acts Mr. Sousa the composer and Mr. Coward and Mr. Sydney Rosenfeld the playwriter and Mr. Bourke Cochran the orator did speak of the great works of Gilbert and Sullivan, but their talk too long, methought. Walked then home through the park, which was filled with young and happy-seeming folk, but I home to dinner and all the evening at work, and later read in Mr. Gerald Stanley Lee's "Crowds," very amusing, and wrote with much wisdom too.

Mr. Cole of the Natural Ice Association of America, objects to the municipal ice idea. "The next step," I said, "might be to supply meat to the poor at cost." THE TWELFTH MAN

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

The trial of Gibson for the murder of Mrs. Szabo has been widely commented upon by the press. The second trial has ended in disagreement. Eleven of the jurors were in favor of conviction, while one man, a farmer named Charles Reynolds, held out for acquittal. After the case was disposed of the foreman of the jury explained.

"One juror refused to have anything to do with us. He refused to answer questions. He refused to give his views. He refused to tell us where he stood on any subject. Except for him we should have been back in court very shortly after retiring. Our efforts, continued for twenty-one hours, were of no use."

"This Twelfth Man is a common type. There is a kind of mind that never arrives at a conviction until it knows what the majority thinks, and then leaps to the opposite conclusion.

Most people are distressed when they are compelled by conscientiousness to differ from their fellows; the Twelfth Man is miserable when he has to agree with anybody. He loves "contradiction for its own sweet sake."

The man who says he has made up his mind and proposes to stick to it—who is he that he should consider his judgment of yesterday infallible?

It takes a great and sincere soul to be conscientious, but the smallest of natures can be the most stubborn.

I cannot understand why we place such value upon firmness, a quality we share with the mule.

For a man to change his religion or his politics, which ought to be taken as a sign of active intelligence and moral courage, is generally regarded as an indication of baseness, and he is called a heretic, a renegade and a turncoat.

The wiser the man, the more teachable.

The more one knows the more he welcomes new truth, and the fear of facts is the surest impeachment of ignorance.

There is no consistency except in consistent change. There is no real stability but progress.

Wisdom, faith and principle, these are great and indispensable things for men; but they are roads that lead uphill; they are not posts to tie to.

Of course there is such a thing as worthy firmness, but this should be a loyalty, not to our own past credences, which are usually half ignorance, but to the truth as we see it now.

"Man," said Emerson, "was made for conflict, not rest. The truest state of mind rested in becomes false," and speaks elsewhere of a certain type of mind that has closed "with a click."

William James has done us all service in insisting upon "pragmatic openness of mind," and coined this significant phrase: "And thereupon he came to a full stop intellectually."

The biased eyes of the world see many things falsely; what they take for loyalty is quite often stupid obstinacy and is appealed to by sectarians and party politicians as a cardinal virtue.

The only genuine loyalty is the willingness to see the truth and such love for and trust in the truth that we gladly follow it—anywhere.

The Scot and a "Lid Club"

Two plainclothes constables, having suspected the club of supplying non-members on Sundays with intoxicants, determined to make an arrest. Their scheme was to approach some member and, by the aid of a plausible tale have the liquor brought to their hands; thus they would be in possession of overwhelming evidence. A victim was selected, who, perceiving the ruse, readily agreed for a consideration to procure a half-pint of whisky.

The man was gone for some time, during which the officers conjured up visions of congratulations and of promotion. When he did emerge, failure was depicted on his countenance. He returned the price of the whisky, with the explanation that not only had he been refused, but the club folk had threatened him with expulsion if the offense were repeated. "And where's the other shillin'?" asked one of the constables, referring to the bribe. "Ach, ye see," was the reply, "I spent it at the baur afore I asked for yer boattle."—Glasgow News.

Quips and Quiddities

Two new arrivals were at the Battery viewing the sights. At sundown a report from a cannon on Governor's Island can be heard.

Schmidt—"That's dot?"

Schiltz—"It's sundown."

Schmidt—"I heard it go down in Germany, but it never made a noise like dot."

There was not even standing room in the crowded car, but one more passenger, a young woman, wedged her way along just inside the doorway. Each time the car took a sudden luch forward she fell helplessly back, and three times she landed in the arms of a large, comfortable man. The third time it happened, he said, quietly:

'Hadn't you better stay here?"

Christian Endeavor Work

By Frederic J. Haskin

Nearly 5,000,000 young people will be represented in the twenty-sixth annual international convention which will meet in Los Angeles beginning July 3. England and all her colonial possessions, as well as each of the large countries in which English speaking missionaries are engaged, will be in some way represented at this mammoth convention which will demonstrate an unparalleled growth in Christian development among the young people of the English speaking world.

• • •

The first Christian Endeavor society was organized in the Congregational church of Portland, Me., in 1881, by Rev. F. E. Clark, D. D., who had the honor of being elected the president of the World's Union of Christian Endeavor at the triennial conference held in Washington in 1896. Twenty-five years ago, in April, 1888, Dr. Clark, spurred by the wonderful enthusiasm with which the Christian Endeavor movement had spread over his own country, set forth to England in "the first real effort to plant Christian Endeavor in a foreign land." His reception there and the thousands of Christian Endeavor societies which sprang up in England as the result of his visit were beyond his highest expectations. Despite the fact that the Christian Endeavor organizations are supposedly confined to evangelical churches and that the English government in the British empire has been second only in growth to that of the United States, it has been carried to South Africa, to India and to Australia, as well as to Canada, where its growth came naturally from proximity to Maine when the first society was organized.

• • •

The Christian Endeavor movement seems almost limitless in scope. The distinctive feature is its work among the young people, leading them to consecrate their lives to active work for God. A weekly prayer meeting which each one pledges him or herself to attend unless unavoidably detained, and the consecration meetings at which special efforts have been made to ascertain if the members have been faithful to their pledge, tend to keep up a live interest in the spiritual work of the organization.

• • •

There is no lack of practical work also. The Christian Endeavor society usually is responsible for the social life of the church. It has committees to look after the interests of strangers, not only those coming to the church but also those who come to the community and are not in attendance upon any church. In many towns its strongest influence has grown out of its efforts to aid strangers. The aid may take any practical form. Sometimes a committee will procure employment for any one in need. A practical aid committee of Christian Endeavor society in a town where a great industrial strike was in progress was able to do much to relieve the suffering of the strikers' families by securing temporary work of many kinds that did not interfere with any of the provisions made by the union which had ordered the strike.

• • •

In large cities much social settlement work is done under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor societies. In many instances the entire relief work of the church is dispensed through a committee of the Christian Endeavor society, the young people in this way being given practical experience in aiding those in need. In many towns a civic committee of an Endeavor society has grown into a village improvement club which has taken up clean streets, public library, pure water, a curfew law and numberless other civic movements which have tended toward the practical betterment of the community. All of these activities if properly conducted are simply demonstrations of the applied Christianity which is the basis of the Christian Endeavor movement.

• • •

The growth of the Christian Endeavor work has been largely aided by the amount of literature which was issued even in the early days of the movement. Live periodicals devoted to the extension of Christian Endeavor activities supplied also with interesting articles upon various subjects apt to interest young people, together with many well written books on many subjects, are being constantly issued for the benefit of workers in Christian societies. No other religious or humanitarian movement ever has been aided from the earliest beginning by so large and varied a supply of literature often supplied directly for the movement from the pens of the ablest writers.

• • •

Music always has been a strong feature in Christian Endeavor work. In most societies a song service precedes each Sunday evening meeting. The publication of the first Christian Endeavor hymn book nearly twenty-five years ago made special provision for Christian Endeavor music which must have spirit, rhythm and melody to be really attractive to young people. Many of the songs then written for that first hymn book were contributed gratis. It was felt that the selection of the music had much to do with the attractiveness of the Christian Endeavor meetings, as it introduced a livelier spirit than was to be found in most of the regular hymns of the church to which the society belonged. The selection of music pleasing to young people, at the same time dignified and in keeping with the highest religious feeling has not been an easy task. The degree of excellence which has been attained by Christian Endeavor music will be demonstrated throughout the great convention by the choruses, anthems, and other special selections, in addition to the splendid congregational singing which will be heard at each session. This music has been supplied not only through American societies but throughout the world. At one of the meetings of the Los Angeles convention a song service will be given by the Chinese, the Japanese and the Hawaiian delegations.

Social purity work will receive a strong forward impetus from the convention as in most of the societies special committees for this work have sprung into active service. There will be separate conferences upon this subject for women and girls and for men and boys in which specialists will give advice as to the best methods of increasing interest in the prevention of the social evil. The consideration of what the Christian Endeavor movement has done and can do for the spread of the peace propaganda will occupy one meeting and there will be a strong influence toward the lessening of race prejudice evidenced throughout the convention. Several prominent colored bishops and clergymen are included in the list of speakers.

• • •

One reason for the success of the Christian Endeavor movement from its beginning was the organized efforts to make the weekly meetings of interest to the members. With this in view a systematic program has been arranged by means of which even the inexperienced leader could not fail to secure the co-operation of the attendants. A topic or subject is prepared for each meeting and suggestive outlines of the leader's talks are provided. Recitations are sometimes given to lend variety. Each meeting has some distinctive feature carefully prepared and its details worked out by a committee of the United society which publishes it each week in order that all of the societies may have the same subject each week. Usually a monthly or quarterly topic card is provided by each society.

Our Excellent Intentions

I am quite clear that one of our worst failures is at the point where, having resolved like angels, we drop back into the old matter of fact life and do just what we did before, because we have always done it, and because our fathers and mothers did it; all of which may be the very reason why we should not do it.

There is no station in life, and no place of one's home, where, if he want to enlarge his life by caring for people outside himself, he may not start on a career of enlargement which shall find the answer to our question to be that the man who enlists upon infinite purposes lives the infinite life. He enlarges his life by every experience of life.—Edward Everett Hale.

TECH FACULTY COMPOSED OF BRILLIANT EDUCATORS

Something About Men Who Have Contributed to the School's Great Success

In connection with the quarter-centennial celebration at the Georgia Tech this week, the fact is being emphasized in many ways that the wonderful success of the institution has been due to the splendid and loyal work of the individual members of the faculty, as much as to any other cause.

In building up this great state institution, President K. G. Matheson is surrounded by a distinguished personnel, some of whom have been with the school for 20 years or more.

Dr. W. H. Emerson, professor of chemistry and dean of the school, has been with Tech ever since 1888. He is a native Georgian, having been born at Tunnel Hill, June 14, 1860. He graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1880, and resigned from the navy in 1884. He received his Ph. D. degree in chemistry from Johns Hopkins university in 1886, and was professor of Chemistry at the South Carolina Milittary Academy from 1886 to 1888. In 1888 he became professor of Chemistry at the Georgia Tech, and has occupied that chair continuously since. In 1910 he was made also dean of the institution. In 1912 he was honored by the University of Georgia with the degree of doctor of science.

Dr. John Sayler Coon, M. E., and Sc. D., is the head of the mechanical engineering department at Tech. He is a native of Watkins, N. Y., and a graduate and instructor of Cornell university. For a number of years he was connected with prominent engineering firms in an executive capacity; later with various mining and railway companies as an expert engineer. His experience in making tests of mining machinery, locomotives, pumping engines, and so on, carried him to all parts of the union. In 1888 he became professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. In 1895 he became professor of mechanical engineering at the Tech. Last year he received the honorary degree of Sc. D. from the University of Georgia.

Thomas Pettus Branch, D.E., is registrar and professor of civil engineering at the Tech. He is a graduate of Vanderbilt university. He has taught in various prominent institutions throughout the country, including the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Oregon. He engaged in practical engineering work in the west; returned to Georgia, and has both taught and done engineering work of importance in this state. For a number of years he was connected with the N. C. & St. L. railway in an engineering capacity. He was principal of Grady Institute at Fort Valley, Ga., and for a time was in charge of the public schools in Shellman, Ga. In 1895 he came to the Georgia Tech, and in 1896, when the trustees established the department of civil engineering, he was placed at its head.

Dr. Samuel Stuart Wallace, A.M., Ph. D., head of the English department at the Tech, is a Marylander by birth and a Georgian by adoption. He was graduated at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., 1890, receiving the A.B. degree. After two years of teaching in the high schools of Maryland, he was honored again by Dickinson college, this time receiving the M.A. degree. Subsequently for four years, he was engaged in preparing young men for college, in the Barnard school, New York city. In 1897 he entered Columbia university to pursue courses of graduate study and receiving the M.A. degree, May 1898. In January, 1899, he was elected Adjunct Professor of English in the Georgia School of Technology, subsequently being advanced to a Junior professorship, and upon the election of Professor Matheson, (then professor of English) to the presidency, he was elected professor of English. In June, 1908, he was honored a third time by his Alma Mater, on the occasion of her 125th anniversary, this time receiveing the degree of Ph.D.

Harry P. Wood, M.E., E.E., is head of the electrical engineering department at the Tech. He is a distinguished member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Prof. Wood graduated from the Pennsylvania State college in 1899, and engaged in practical electric railway and electric lighting work until 1902, when he was made assistant professor of electrical engineering at Pennsylvania State college. From 1906 to 1907 he was assistant professor of electrical engineering at the University of Illinois, and in 1907 was made professor of electrical engineering at the Georgia School of Technology.

J. N. G. Nesbitt, E.E., M.E., is professor of experimental engineering at the Tech. He is a graduate of Pennsylvania State college with the degrees of B.S., E.E. and M.E. As an executive and consulting engineer, he has been connected with some of the big power and manufacturing companies throughout the country. He has been professor of experimental engineering at the Georgia Tech for eleven years past. Prof. Nesbitt is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Dr. John Bascom Crenshaw, A.M., Ph.D., is professor of modern languages at the Georgia Tech, and has been connected with the institution since 1904. He comes of an old Virginia family. He was a graduate and instructor at Randolph-Macon college. From 1886 on, he did special work at Johns Hopkins university, and received a doctors degree from that institution in 1892. From 1894 to 1902 he taught in Baltimore, at the same time pursuing graduate courses at the university. The year of 1903 he spent in Europe studying German and French at the University of Berlin, visiting France, Switzerland and Italy. He was teaching French and English at the Baltimore State college when he was elected to his present position at the Tech.

W. Vernon Skiles, acting head of the department of mathematics, was born in Illinois in 1879. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, and a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society. He pursued his graduate work in mathematics at the University of Chicago and at Harvard, receiving his M.A. degree from the latter institution. In September, 1906, he was elected adjunct professor of mathematics at Tech, and in September, 1912, was made acting head of the department.

E. T. McCarthy, M.E., is associate professor of drawing at the Tech. He graduated from the State Normal college at Cortland, N. Y. He taugh mathematics and science in the high school from 1901 to 1906, and graduated as an electrical engineer from Cornell university in 1910, since which time he has been connected with Tech.

Dr. William Andrew Jackson, physician at the Georgia School of Technology, is a native of Baltimore, Md. He has been physician and director of physical culture in various important institutions in different parts of the country. He made special studies at Columbia university. He was an unpaid curator of osteology at the Smithsonian institute for some time and he is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore in 1896. He took post-graduate work at Harvard university, and received the highest certificate given for special work. He has practiced medicine in Maryland and Massachusetts. He came to Atlanta in 1900, and for the past thirteen years has been physician and surgeon at the Tech school. He is also at the head of the physical culture department of Tech.

THE BRILLIANT STARS OF JUNE

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. It will surely head off the cold, and heal the inflamed membranes. The genuine in a yellow package. For sale by all dealers.—(Advt.)

"BROTHER JAMES" GETS THREE YEARS IN PEN

Thomas Kirby, alias Brother James, alias Rev. Brother James Brady, pleaded guilty to the charge of fraudulent use of the mails in the federal court Monday afternoon and was given a sentence of 18 months and a fine of $500, on two separate counts, by Judge William T. Newman, making the prisoner's total sentence three years and a fine of $1,000.

The bill against Kirby came from Spalding county, where it was alleged he used the mails to solicit contributions for a college at St. Leo, Fla.

Norfolks---

For Town and Country

Fashion takes its ease in mid-summer, relaxing hard and fast rules, having a bit of fun and wearing what it pleases.

Waistcoats are put aside, soft collars and lounge suits rule.

Norfolks, primarily meant for sports and the country, are now worn in town and out, because of the easy, breezy "idle hour" air in tune with the grilling weather.

A notable feature of this summer's styles is the high waistline, giving the wearer the desired long-limbed "slim and trim" look.

$20.00 and $25.00

Blue Norfolks worn with white flannel trousers are smart for informal summer dances.

Three Forward Steps. No Backward Step Will Be Taken.

The man had an unclean spirit.

Fetters and chains he broke.

No man could tame him.

Night and day he raged and cut himself with stones.

When he saw Jesus, he cried:

"What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the Most High God? I adjure thee by God, torment me not."

Left to himself, he would have been hopelessly lost.

A torture to himself—a terror to others until the end he would have remained, had Jesus heeded him.

Against his will, he was cured.

She had sinned.

Offered the choice between the effort to reform and prison, she chose prison.

Jane Addams says of another girl:

"Such demoralization is, of course, most valuable to the white slave trader, for when a girl has become thoroughly accustomed to the life and testifies that she is in it of her own free will, she puts herself beyond the protection of the law.

"She belongs to a legally degraded class without redress in courts of justice for personal outrages.

"It is easy to see why it thus becomes PART OF THE BUSINESS to break down a girl's moral nature by all those horrible devices which are constantly used by the owner of a white slave.

"A girl thus rendered more useful to her owner, will thereafter fail to touch the chivalry of men or the tenderness of women, because good men and women have become convinced of her inmate degeneracy, a word we have learned to use with the UNCTION formerly placed upon original sin.

The very revolt of society against such girls is used by their owners as a protection to the business.

Reflect!

That woman was not born unclean.

God created her for motherhood.

But man defiled and enslaved her.

You will not approve this.

Moreover, when you once understand the truth —that a fallen woman is only a girl with a murdered soul—you will sicken at the thought; you will help her; you will join in preventing others from falling into the same wretched trap.

Not all refuse help.

When the houses were closed, a girl, crying, begged to be taken home. Those who carried her there found her mother praying that God would find and bring back her daughter.

But some have been so mangled and marred that they must be protected from themselves and the men who prey upon them.

And society must be protected.

For these—the incorrigibles—the County Commissioners are now preparing a home.

This will answer in Atlanta and Fulton county the question:

"What is to be done with the woman who cannot or will not reform?"

She will be schooled under gentle but firm hands, backed by authority of the law, until she learns again the true meaning of womanhood.

She will not be put in the chaingang. She will not be dismissed with a fine. She will be saved from herself and owners.

While she is at large—

While the white slaver is encouraged to make others like her by the tolerated brothel—

Martha's Home, for those willing to be helped, was the second.

The County Commissioners are now taking the third in preparing the Home for the Incorrigibles.

No backward step will be taken.

COTTON MARKET NERVOUS AND EXCITED ALL DAY

Market in New York Closed 8 to 18 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 10.—Cotton opened firm at an advance of 6 to 12 points on renewed covering and bull support of the old crop positions, which proved to be unusually large. The finish spot sales, firm late Liverpool cables and reports that the favorable weather map showing more dominion foreshadowed an active season in Lancashire. Weather and crop advices were considered generally favorable while reports over the general situation growing out of the unsettled state of affairs in Wall street and apprehensions of stringent money markets also discouraged outside buying; however, after making new high ground for the movement, the market became more or less irregular.

Reports detailed weather pictures showing heavy rain and low temperatures in the eastern belt helped the market late in the forenoon and July contracts sold at 12 cents with the general list 8 to 12 points net higher. Estimated receipts today 7,000 bales.

The market showed increased excitement during the early afternoon, there being numerous new sellers of July and an active demand from shorts sent that position up to 12.25, or 20 points net higher. New york months were firm on complaints of excessive rainfall and low temperatures in the eastern belt, and at about 17 to 19 points above the closing figures of last night. Realizing caused slight reactions later. The undertone was very nervous.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—Cotton futures closed steady at an advance of 3 to 8 points over last night and the call was the feature of the day. Bulls also claimed that the wet weather of the last week or ten days had a material effect on the crop. Moderate buying on account was evident in the early trading, but more general covering was noted after increasing their lines. Their offerings were all absorbed when it amounted to 25,000 bales. At the end of the first half hour of the session it was at a net gain of 10 points, but from then on, the line was very steady on report of showers and rains for the entire country.

Toward the middle of the morning the market developed a firmer tone, largely through the fear of the sold was coming from traders who had long on stocks and shorts, and those who were closing out their cotton in the belief they would be able to protect their interest stimulated fresh long buying in the early and weather reports which, on the whole, were called favorable in the extreme. An advance very little fresh short selling and covering purchases were principally in evidence. Prices were satisfied with their profits. At the close of the morning the market was 10 to 16 points up. July showing the most strength. The afternoon was quiet and steady at 8 to 10 points higher.

DERELICT LIFE BOAT WHERE TITANIC SUNK

(By Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, Md., June 10.—Almost on the exact spot where the illfated Titanic foundered a little more than a year ago the lookout of the North German Lloyd steamship Bluecher, which docked here yesterday with 1,302 immigrants, sighted a barnacle-covered life boat.

The derelict was sighted on the morning of June 4, floating keel upward, and the officers of the Eisenach said that it apparently had been at the mercy of the waves for at least twelve months. The Bluecher's course was directly over the spot where the Titanic went down.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Dun's Review says: Bear talent generally seems fully convinced the cotton crop is making wonderfully favorable progress and they look for a bumper crop. Bigger and bigger.

Bull talent generally seems convinced that persistent and aggressive buying on the New York July positions, are supplying cotton market strength. The bear quite naturally asks what the bull will do with July, and is pressed to play a part in market affairs, and the bull retorts with a query as to what the bear will do when the dream of a sixteen or seventeen million-bale crop shall have been destroyed by unsavorable weather reports. Experience believes in a moderate crop promise, but the big yield and abundance which prevailed that Europe is far removed from the cotton belt, therefore the American bear is the best judge of the condition of affairs.

America is being harassed by tariff change fears, the monetary situation is acute, values are not in the best condition, and by the cry of "wolf" given too often for recognition, but the friend of the staple directs attention to the fact that some home industries are howling before the tariff knife, that manufacturers are using cotton this season than was produced in 1912, that the foreign trade sentiment is by no means pessimistic.

Scattered light and occasional heavy rains are reported in the entire cotton belt, being heaviest in Oklahoma and along Atlantic coast.

Light to low weather Texas, low temperatures will continue for another 24 hours over those sections followed by warmer and somewhat unsettled weather. Some rain is needed, but excessive rain in localities, but not damaging.

Dallas wires: "Texas and Oklahoma generally good rains covering nearly every inch of both states, with more needed today."

Journal of Commerce says: The gossip is that there is a good interest in one quarter of 100,000 July and August.

Sales, in bids in New York were as follows: January, 11.28; March, 11.37; May, 11.82; June, 11.87; July, 12.23; August 11.89, October 11.36.

Forecast: Louisville, unsettled, general thunder showers tonight or Wednesday; light rain tonight or Wednesday.

Oklahoma—Unsettled, scattered thunder showers tonight or Wednesday.

Texas—Unsettled, scattered thunder showers tonight or Wednesday, warmer in north portion.

Kentucky—Fair tonight and Wednesday.

Tennessee—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday.

Mississippi—Cloudy, probably local rains south portion tonight and Wednesday.

Georgia—Showers tonight and Wednesday; warmer in the north portion.

Alabama—Unsettled, showers tonight and Wednesday.

Florida—Local showers.

New Orleans—Map indicates partly cloudy to fair weather. Temperatures will be higher except more rain south and very light rain will be beneficial. Continued cool north central and northeastern belt. Rain showers cloudy belt, rain good over belt, but only light rain in south Carolina. Atlantic coast and in south Texas, where it was too dry. General rains below normal. Temperatures below normal over the whole belt, but crop too far advanced and only relief to a little backward spots in growth.—Kofler.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow, Jones summary:

Supreme court in Minnesota case upholds right of states to fix railroad rates, as result will pay to state approximately $1,000,000. Decision of United States Steel tonnage figures to be published at noon.

We will have a weak opening and lower prices. How far declines will go will depend to some extent on support extended on large interests. It is time to be cautious and conservative. The Boston and Albany dividend will probably be passed today. Believe short contracts should be covered during first hour.—Potter.

Chicago Inter-Ocean says: A bearish control in the Minnesota case.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Ocean says: A bearishing control by the trade in general. Those who were inclined to be bullish will be disappointed owing to the fact that condition of winter wheat in Kansas and Oklahoma is lower now than when the government figures were made and that they take a loss of 22,000,000 bushels from last month. A good feature, however, is that conditions are not right for a bull movement of anything like importance. It was noticeable yesterday by the pit element in corn that commercial interests were selling. This was done and that shorts were the buyers. The bears have a safe rule consider the price high enough and that figures will go to 1.24@1.25 for corn. The greatest surprise was the increase of 1.1 per cent in the winter wheat crop, a reduction of 5 per cent was expected.

Harding Grain Co. says: We want, when ever selling pressure comes on the market is high. Corn: Specialize trade is light with the temper generally bearish. Can't see anything to cannot be called weak.

Oats: Out of the government figures on prices is likely to cause an easier market for the coming week.

Provisions: Current arrivals seems to meet with a good demand and the general undertone is firm.

Saving and Investing

Getting After the Small Investor.
BY JOHN M. OSKISON

The other day I read an editorial in a paper devoted to the interests of the dealers in farm mortgages. It points out to a vast accumulation of capital in the commercial banks of the country which is now earning a very small return for its owners, and suggested that if these money owners knew about good mortgages they could increase their return without incurring any risk by from 20 to 30 per cent. That calculation is based on the theory that money in commercial banks, being on time deposits, drew as much as 4 per cent. As a matter of fact, very little of it earns more than 3 per cent. Farm mortgages, according to this paper, the return on perfectly safe paper, may be increased to 5 and 5 1-2 per cent.

Nearly as many depositors have savings accounts in the national, state, and private banks of the companies and have accounts in the two types of savings banks (mutual and stock) in this country. There are about $32,000,000 in the commercial banks; and 8,597,792 in the savings banks. In amount of deposits, however, there is a greater discrepancy —$2,328,838,000 to $4,173,000,000.

Here, truly, is a vast body of small investors waiting to be taught to handle their own money. Who is waiting to be taught the first principles of the use of money. For instance:

A New York bond house, which has been working for customers' accounts in modest savers, has recently thought it good business to issue a table showing the growth of an investment over a period of years if the money is put into something which yields 5 per cent. It starts with $100 a year invested at 5 per cent in ten years will grow to a yearly amount of $700—this merely by the addition of earned interest every year to the $500.

In fifteen years, according to the bond house, interest earnings will amount to $500 a year, which can be added to the saved original sum. With constant compounding the saver of $500 a year gets at the end of fifteen years a principal amount of $10,778. Evidently people generally don't know that.

News of Women and Society

Tango Tea at Piedmont Club

Mrs. Frank E. Callaway and Mrs. Don Pardee will entertain at a tango tea Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Piedmont club, the guests to include the members of the two dancing classes whose meetings have been such a delightful feature of the spring gayeties.

Bridge Party to Miss Hall

Mrs. Robert Hunt will entertain at an informal bridge party Saturday morning at her home on Myrtle street in compliment to Miss Muriel Hall, a bride-elect.

To Mrs. Bonnyman

Mrs. Bulow Campbell entertained the members of the History class this afternoon in honor of one of its former members, Mrs. Alexander Bonnyman, who has been her guest for the past week.

Tea was served at 5 o'clock a number of other guests being invited to meet Mrs. Bonnyman.

The reception rooms were lovely with pink and white hollyhocks the lovely flowers filling tall stands and vases everywhere.

Elks to Give Subscription Dance

The Elks will entertain at a subscription dance this evening at the Elks home on East Ellis street. The invitations will include only the members and their special guests, the proceeds of the dance to be used in purchasing an organ for the lodge room.

Bridge Series

Miss Ferol Humphries was hostess at the initial one of a series of bridge parties Tuesday afternoon at her home on Peachtree circle in compliment to her guest, Miss Mary Osborne, of Savannah.

The prize for top score was a blue silk parasol, the consolation was a lace handkerchief and the guest of honor was presented an enameled blue bird pin as a souvenir of the occasion.

Miss Humphries' guests included sixteen friends. The second bridge party in the series will be given Thursday afternoon when Miss Osborne will share honors with Miss Jessie Dixon, of Savannah, who is visiting Miss Alice Parks.

Reception at Briarcliff Farm

Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Jr., was hostess at a reception Tuesday afternoon at her country home, "Briarcliff" farm on the Williams Mill road, in compliment to Miss Louise Bailey, a bride-elect.

The large living room where the guests were received was banked with palms and many handsome growing plants, and throughout the apartment French baskets holding liberty roses gave a lovely touch of color.

Paul Neron roses formed the decoration of the dining room, a plateau of the roses graced the center of the tea table, and the slender pink tapers were tipped with rose and silver shades.

Mrs. Candler was costumed in pale blue crepe with overdrapery of chiffon brocaded in shades of pink.

Receiving with Mrs. Candler were Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Mrs. William Candler, Mrs. T. J. Ripley and Miss Ripley's attendants, Miss Laura Ripley, Mrs. Homer McAfee, Miss Julia Macintyre, Miss Sina White and Miss Frances Anslev.

Miss Allie Candler, Miss Marie Bailey, of Fernandina, Fla., and Miss Martha Holland served punch during the afternoon.

Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mrs. John Candler, Mrs. William D. Owens and Miss Ludie Holland.

Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale was hostess at a bridge luncheon Tuesday at her home in West End, in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Walter G. Smith, a recent bride.

A Vaudeville Violin

A violin that talks and whistles and sings, played by a black moustached gentleman with a foreign name and a most disillusioning American accent, is one of the novelties at the Forsyth this week. Somehow, in spite of the black moustached gentleman who advertises the fact that he is quite mad, as mad really, as the Hatter in Wonderland, it is the violin itself that seems to be whistling and singing and talking.

It sits up between the man's knees like a baby 'cello and sings and sobs the "Wearin of the Green," then takes an alert almost coquettish air and mimics Adelina Patti's sprightly rendition of "Coming Through the Rye." Among the encores from the gallery there are shrill whistles and the violin quite as shrilly answers, there are other whistles from all parts of the house and the violin whistles back derisively while the black moustached gentleman grimaces and nearly shakes his head off in the background.

It is a very whimsical violin and seems to enjoy equally the most classic music and the verriest ragtime, the raggedest ragtime ever written, ragtime that sets every foot to patting in the audience and nearly makes those of the black moustached gentleman with the foreign name come entirely off. It is a violin that everyone should hear, and more than that, it is only one number in a very good bill.

Dixon-Jones

Mr. Benjamin M. Jones, a popular young man of the city, will leave this afternoon for Atlanta, Ga., where Wednesday evening he and Miss Frances Bostick Dixon, of that city, will be united in marriage.

He will be accompanied by Mr. Paul Baschon, of Richmond, Va., who will be best man. The wedding will be quite an interesting social event in the Georgia capital. Mr. Jones and his bride will leave immediately after the ceremony for their bridal tour and will come to Wilmington about June 25 to make their home.

Mr. Jones is a well known and popular young man and his bride will be given a most cordial welcome to the city.—Wilmington Morning Star.

To Miss Mobley

Mrs. William L. Scott entertained at a miscellaneous shower Monday in compliment to Miss Pearl Mobley, a bride-to-be.

The house was decorated with pink roses and ferns.

Those present were: Miss Mobley, Miss Dora Hiers, Miss Celia Hiers, Miss Frances Lazear, Miss Mabel Kutcheon, Mrs. Max Epstein, Mrs. E. M. Redwine, Mrs. D. N. Baldwin, Mrs. E. S. Logan, Mrs. Howard Loveless, Mrs. W. E. Sallin and Mrs. E. L. Humphries.

Albrecht-Jernigan Wedding Party

On Thursday evening at the bride's home on lower Fourth avenue, the wedding of Miss Mary Lou Albrecht and Mr. Herbert Cuthbert Jernigan, of Jacksonville, will take place.

The hour of the ceremony is 8:30, and Dr. L. R. Christie, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate.

Miss Stella Albrecht will be her sister's maid of honor and Mr. J. R. Duggans, of Jacksonville, will act as best man for Mr. Jernigan.

There will be only one bridesmaid, Miss Lula Jackson, of Atlanta.

The two little ribbon bearers are Miss Clara Long, of Manchester, and Miss Grace Barfield.

The bride will enter with her brother, Mr. H. W. Albrecht, by whom she will be given in marriage.

The out-of-town guests will include Misses Lula and Freddie Kate Jackson, of Atlanta; Misses Ruth and Ethel Waterhouse and Miss Sophie Herzod, of Macon; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Meyers, of Montgomery, and Mrs. C. C. Brooks, of Atlanta.—Columbus Ledger.

To Miss Riley

Miss Lizzie D. Thomas entertained six girls at an informal luncheon Monday in compliment to Miss Louise Riley, of Tallahassee, Fla., who has been with friends in the city for the past several days.

The table was attractively arranged, purple and white, the colors of the Y. W. C. A., of which Miss Riley is an active member, being used.

Miss Riley left Monday evening for Asheville, N. C., where she will be assistant secretary to the national Y. W. C. A. secretary.

Those invited to meet her were members of the Atlanta Y. W. C. A.

Entre Nous Club

The Entre Nous club will entertain at a dancing party Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at Segadlo's.

Miss Taylor Entertains

Miss Annie Taylor entertained about forty guests in honor of Mrs. Vincent Taylor, a recent bride, of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Daisy Patterson, a popular bride-elect of this month.

Miss Taylor received her guests wearing a blue chiffon dress over satin with a corsage of prink roses, and was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Miss Myrle McClain, Miss Irene Patterson and Mrs. J. C. Harrison.

2,000 Yards of Beautiful Ribbons In a Very Interesting Sale

A sale that will solve the problems of "little women" who know all about the ever-present needs of hair bows, sashes and the like.

There are three splendid groups to select from, and in each the most unusual savings of the season.

For example:

50c Novelty Ribbons at 35c

Wide, beautiful Ribbons in either rich floral patterns, or the fashionable Bulgarian designs—the kinds so popular for hat trimmings, girdles, sashes and so on.

25c and 30c Ribbons at 19c

These in the new blues, reds, Nell rose, petunia shades, etc., which have been so scarce, yet in such demand. Satin taffetas, and taffetas.

Pretty Novelty Ribbons at 12c Yard

Shadowy floral effects, dainty Dresden and Persian designs, light colors, ideal for little tots' sashes and hair bows, there are solid colors, too, in darker shades. A great variety to select from at this special price for Wednesday—12c yard.

A Sale of 50c Neckwear at 39c

Girls will never graduate from the love of pretty Neckwear, for they know how wonderfully it transforms an otherwise dull and sombre gown, or suit.

Tomorrow you may select from a whole table full of pretty stylish collars, jabots, stocks, just such as are most worn now, and the regular 50c kinds at 39c each.

Soft Nothings for the Neck

Ruffles!! Otherwise known as Plaitings. Without them women and the world would be duller to look at.

Here are exceedingly dainty kinds, of net or shadow lace, white, cream and black, which you may buy at 39c yard tomorrow, instead of 50c and 65c which are their regular prices.

Nearly 40 Kinds of Cool Summer Dresses To Sell Tomorrow at $4.95

Priced Regularly up to $10

Delightful afternoon dresses, morning frocks, for street or home wear—the main point is, they are new, fresh, pretty, stylish and have those indefinable little touches which appeal to women who appreciate dainty details as well as style.

So many vivid styles of summer dresses are arriving daily, there is scarcely room to place them. These are going to make room.

Women have never had such early-season savings opportunities—and on the very dresses most in demand at present.

We do not attempt to tell you about all the winsome and vastly becoming styles, in which are contained the most popular fabrics: voiles, sheer striped effects, white and plain colors, beautiful linens of French and ramie weaves, ratines, Dolly Varden crepes, eponges, etc.

Dresses greatly to be desired at the price for which we are going to sell them tomorrow—$4.95 each.

Pretty "Bungalow" Aprons at 25c

So as to Aprons. There is always something alluring about a becoming apron, these are especially so.

They are for practical uses too: Generous-sized with bibs which extend over the shoulders and fasten in the back.

For a Dip in the Lake

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

When the Castles became the sensation of the dancing world in New York Mrs. Castle set the fashion for a new kind of gown. Just at first the women who imitated and admired her were not quite conscious of the novelty of her frock. They said she looked like a French painter and a Revolutionary heroine, yet they did not think of imitating the gown.

There a young June bride had the gown copied for her trousseau. This was the beginning of several gowns a la Castle. Now the fashion has become settled and such frocks have appeared as more or less artistic at smart dances. The main idea is very much what was used to connect with Janice Meredith, for even the young ones must remember when the heroine of that book and play started a fashion for the square neck in front, the tight elbow sleeves, the single curl escaping from the coiffure and the high-heeled pump with a large buckle.

This costume of today consists of a slim white skirt and a looped up over skirt with a tight bodice of figured crepe or voile. In the bride's trousseau the skirt was of faint blue satin with the overskirt and bodice of flowered voile—the flowers being tiny pink and blue bouquets with pointed green leaves —which is a fabric that is growing in importance for all kinds of gowns.

This overskirt was looped up with tiny bunches of satin flowers to match those in the fabric, the sleeves were rather loose and ended in a puff of white tulle tied into the arm with black velvet ribbon and a bunch of satin roses.

The deep V-shaped decolletage was outlined with a loose ruffle of white tulle and the round, somewhat high waist was ungirdled. At its front there was another bunch of satin roses.

The Fashion For Figured Voile.

The public has taken most kindly to this revival of a very old fabric which is now called voile and which is durable in the highest degree, and although there have been a large number of picturesque frocks made of it the newest adaptation of it as a top to a slim white skirt is interesting.

There are some women who prefer this gown made of figured taffeta, which in its new weave is soft and supple, but it does not really give the effect that the voile gives and does not present as much novelty.

Any girl who is to be married this summer should have one of these gowns in her outfit. If she does not care to wear it as a dancing gown she will find it admirable for informal dinners in her own home and especially attractive as a tea gown for the 5 o'clock hour. She can add to it a cap of embroidered muslin or cluny lace, which has a round crown to fit the head, a tiny ruffle to hang over the neck and back, a coronet piece in front and wired flaps over the ears.

This is the kind of cap Mrs. Castle wears, minus the coronet. When such a cap is crimmed with little bunches of tight rosebuds over each ear the picturesqueness of such a costume is undeniable.

In these days of fanciful footwear one can always add to the color scheme by silk stockings and high-heeld slippers. There is no longer any attempt to match one's shoes to the gown; on the contrary, one tries to make a harmonious contrast, such as wearing pale blue satin slippers and stockings with a shell pink tea gown and the other way around.

COLORED GOWNS INSTEAD OF WHITE.

As the season advances there is no doubt that women prefer any one of these figured fabrics to an all white one. Muslin is conspicuous by its absence, although we may see much more of it when the weather is hotter and the season is more advanced.

But women like the novelty of the figured voiles and muslins and they have gone back to the old-fashioned solid colored muslins or batistes, such as Japanese red and sky-blue and hunter's pink. All of these colors fade in the sun, but women take a chance on their lasting through the season if they are only worn in the late afternoon.

Even when one wears a gown of white embroidered batsiste or muslin there is a good deal of color given it by a wide ornamental girdle and sometimes by a hem on the skirt and as a finish to the sleeves.

The one all white gown that is more fashionable than any other kind is made of lace and this has been imitated in net. Both of them carry color in the way of satin ribbon or a huge flower, and of course there is the new fashion to be reckoned with which calls for red and blue and green shoes slashed to show white or flesh pink stockings worn with white lace gowns. This is called Spanish.

ROME, Ga., June 10.—The Howel Cotton company, one of the largest cotton concerns in the state, has purchased an eight and one-half acre tract of suburban property on the east side. It is the intention of the company to erect new compresses and warehouses upon this property, and to devote the property now occupied by them in the center of the city to new stores and office buildings.

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

HER HUSBAND

It was at an afternoon string concert. Eugenie had gone with her mother. Not that either cared particularly for the music, but it was a place to rest in and they were not ready to go home. They had gone shopping at 11, had torn themselves away from a fascinating bargain counter at 1, had lunched at a fashionable restaurant and chatted with a couple of acquaintances, and now they were finishing out the evening at the concert hall.

There was a thin, rather inattentive audience, composed mainly of women wearing some fine spring gear, and Eugenie's eye wandered constantly from the performers. Though the music throbbed insistently, she was scarcely aware of it. Her thoughts were occupied with whether she had not made a mistake in having maline instead of roses on her new hat.

Her mind veered suddenly from the subject of the hat to the fact that two women behind her were conversing in rather loud tones under cover of a crescendo passage in the music. Said one:

"They say he only draws a thousand a year," was the reply. "I just saw her in Colson's buying lace at $8 a yard. Think of it! People are saying generally—"

The color streamed into Eugenia's face. "Why, they're talking about me," she thought with indignation. "I bought that $8 lace and Rodman's salary at Westmore is $1,000 a year. I wonder who that woman is. How dare she discuss me like that? And what are people saying generally? I never dreamed they said anything. Why should they comment on my staying at home? It's my own affair. And Radmon doesn't object—"

Yet was she so sure that Rodman did not object? There had been something in his last letter, a mere phrase, which came to her now curiously. Yet she had only read the letter through once! "You seem to be getting farther away each day." Those were the words. Reading them she had not stopped to think what they might mean.

Her thoughts went back to that morning seven years ago when she met Rodman. They were in attendance at the same university. She had specialized in music and he in mathematics. He had stood high throughout their university course and for a year after, and then she had married him. Her mother had been unwilling. She had had higher aims for her daughter than marrying her to the assistant principal in a country high school.

Eugenie had been married two years, and most of that time she had spent at home with her mother. She did not like Westmore; she was much happier at home and Rodmen got along very well without her. Occasionally she went to see him, but she did not like the face at his boarding house, and there were no theaters to amuse her. She always was glad to get away, even at the expense of leaving Rodman.

He was slight of figure, a little bowed at the shoulders, with hair prematurely gray at the temples. Rodman was not a man who would do great things or attain marked recognition. He was too deep, plodding, humble. She had found him rather like a profound volume which she could lay aside at will and take up again at the same point she had left off. He was always there. She was sure of him. It had never occurred to her that he might not be just as sure of her.

And yet there was that phrase of his: "You seem to be getting farther away each day." She had thought that he meant only mere distance, for Westmore was a whole day's journey from her own town. It came to her like a pang that he had in truth implied more.

Again there was a bust of crescendo and again she heard the voice behind her. "He's either a fool or an angel. In either case the result is inevitable. Of such stuff are divorces made!"

The speaker laughed. And the other replied: "If she were older she'd know better. I should think her mother would warn her."

Eugenie touched her mother's arm. "Mother, I'm tired of this. Let us go," she said.

They rose. As they turned to leave their seats Eugenie recognized in the women who had discussed her two of her mother's most fashionable acquaintances. She hurried by without speaking. In the lobby her mother gained her side.

"Eugenie, you did not bow to Mrs. Aitscheler and Mrs. Burgess. They sat right behind us," said Mrs. Graham.

Eugenie said nothing. She was too angry, too uneasy. Her mind was too much taken up with this new thing that had been thrust upon her notice. "Of such stuff are divorcees made!" "If she were older she'd know better." The words sting like annoying insects in her ears. Divorce! It was evident people were saying things—were expecting some such outcome from the fast that she and Rodman were so much apart.

She had been certain of finding a letter from Rodman on arriving home. And yet there was no letter. This was the seventh day since he had written. "How strange!" she thought. "It has never happened before. He may be ill. Then came a maddening conviction: "He may simply be growing indifferent."

"I will go to him," she said aloud.

"Eugenie, they've sent our purchases—" she said then, with a kind of wail. "Oh, where are you going?"

"I'm going to Rodman, mother. I've just about time to make the train. I must see Rodman."

During the long night journey to Westmore Eugenie thought much of her married life. "Rodman gave me all. What have I given him? I have spent his money for things I could never have had use for had I lived in Westmore. I have been a bad wife. If Rodman should be ill or grown too indifferent," she wailed. "Oh, shall I never get to Westmore?"

With a quick movement she went to him.

The train got in on time, at 8 o'clock. A cab was waiting. She overpaid the man to hurry her to Rodman's boarding place. Outside of Rodman's door she hesitated with a sickening feeling lest what she hoped to find might not await her. Softly she turned the knob and looked in. It was a large, dingy room in all its early morning dishevelment. At his work table, close to the one available window, Rodman sat. His back was toward her. His head was on his arms. And in the stillness she distinctly heard him sob. With a quick movement she went to him, leaned over him, lifter his head to her bosom, upressed her face to his.

"Rodman, my husband, I've come to you—and I love you!"

"Eugenie!"

Looking into his eyes she saw amazement, wonder, surprise die out of them and give place to a great joy and thankfulness. He smiled. And she kissed him before the smile could go.

"I've come to stay, Rodman. My place is here with you. You need me, don't you, dear?"

"Need you? Good God!" All the man's sould hunger burst forth in that cry. "If you could see the letter I sent you last night!"

She held him close, happy as she had never been in her life. "We'll have a home, Rodman, here where your work is. This sort of thing shall stop. Our married life hasn't meant much to you, but henceforth, please God—"

He drew a deep rapturous breath. "Never mind all that now, sweet. Only say again that you love me."

And with a new wonderful feeling of reality, Eugenie said it. "I love you, my husband."

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

"Listen!" It was Jimmy Skunk speaking. He had just met Peter Rabbit half way down the Crooked Little Path just where the moonlight was brightest. But he did not need to tell Peter to listen. Peter was listening—listening with all his might. He was sitting up very straight and his long ears were turned in the direction of the strange sound. Just then it came again, a sound such as neither Peter Rabbin nor Jimmy SKunk had ever heard before. Peter's teeth began to chatter.

"I dont know unless it is Hooty the Owl gone crazy," replied Jimmy.

"No," said Peter, "it isn't Hooty the Owl. Hooty never could make such a noise as that."

"Maybe it's Dippy the Loon. I've heard him on the Big river and he sounds just as if he had gone crazy," replied Jimmy.

"No," said Peter looking behind him nervously. "No, it isn't Dippy the Loon, for Dippy never leaves the water, and this voice came from the Green Meadows. I wouldn't be surprised—" Peter didn't finish, for just then the strange voice sounded again, and it was nearer than before. Never had the Green Meadows or the Green Forest heard anything like it. It sounded something like Hooty the Owl and Dippy the Loon and a little yelping dog all together, and there was something in the sound that made little cold chills run up and down Peter Rabbit's backbone. He crept a little closer to Jimmy Skunk.

"I believe it is Farmer Brown's boy and some of his friends laughing and shouting together," said Jimmy.

"No. said Peter. Farmer Brown's boy and his friends can make some dreadful noises, but nothing so dreadful as that. It makes me afraid, Jimy Skunk." said Peter.

"Pooh! You're afraid of your own shadow!" replied Jimmy Skunk, who isn't much afraid of anything. Let's go down there and find out what it is." Peter's big eyes grew rounder than ever with fright at the very thought. "D-d-don't you think of such a thing, Jimmy Skunk! D-d-don't y-y-you think of such a thing!" he chattered. "I know it's something terrible. Oh dear, wish I was safe at home in the dear old briar patch."

Again sounded the strange voice, or was it voices? It seemed sometimes as if there were two or three together. Then again it sounded like only one. Each time Peter Rabbit crept a little closer to Jimmy Skunk. Pretty soon even Jimmy began to feel a little uneasy.

"I'm going home," said he suddenly.

"I want to, but I don't dare to," said Peter, shaking all over with fright.

"Pooh! any one who can run as fast as you can ought not to be afraid," said Jimmy. "But if you really are afraid you can come up to my house and stay a while," he added good naturedly.

"Oh, thank you, Jimmy Skunk. I believe I will come and sit on your doorstep if you don't mind," cried Peter.

So together they went up to Jimmy Skunk's house and sat on his doorstep in the moonlight and listened to the strange voice all the long night, and then when he saw Old Mother West Wind coming down from the Purple Hills in the early dawn Peter Rabbit got courage enough to start for his home in the dear old briar patch.

RELIABLE GLASSES MODERATE PRICES

Surely everybody knows that a reliable and satisfied pair of glasses is dependent on the skill and experience of the person making the examination, and the price is controlled by the lens formulae (kind of lens required) and the syle of the frames or mountings. Even though your circumstances are such that the price is of great consideration to you, the correct lenses should be of very first importance. We cannot imagine any better way to offer you our superior optical service (without seeming to boast) than to say we have served the public safely and satisfactorily for fifty years. There is no better recommendation in the world than the word of your friends who say:—"I have tried them and my glasses are perfectly satisfactory." As to the price of glasses, we can give you an elaborate, heavy, solid gold frame mounted with the finest lenses, or if you wish, the best lenses in a substantial, plain aluminum frame at a very moderate figure. Above all things, let us caution you—don't risk a pair of cheap glasses your eyes are too precious and cheap glasses are the height of false economy. We will take pleasure in talking the matter over with you. We respectfully solicit your patronage and favor—but first, ask your friends about us.

WOMAN'S STORY MADE PUBLIC

Mrs. Moncrief Didn't Consider It Secret. Thought Friends Should Know. Read Her Statement.

Felton, Tex.—Mrs. Ethel Moncrief, of this place, says: "I suffered with a complaint peculiar to women, and, although I called in the doctors, they failed to do me any good.

Then, I began to take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

From the first, I could feel results, and, in a short time I was relieved of all my dreadful suffering.

My friends were surprised to see the results I obtained from the use of Cardui. I just couldn't help telling them. It built up my system wonderfully.

I do not want to be without Cardui in my house, as long as I can obtain it. It is a true relief for womanly troubles. I can't praise it too highly."

In the past half century, thousands of ladies have written, like Mrs. Moncrief, to tell of the benefit received from the use of Cardui.

It cannot do you harm, and is almost sure to be the very medicine you need. It's good for young or old.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

Edwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. A druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Miss M." writes: "I suffer greatly with my nerves, am almost on the point of nervous prostration. I cannot sleep and am hysterical at times. Can you help me?"

Answer. Many women, old and young, who have suffered as you do, have been cured by using the following tonic restorative treatment: Get from your druggist 1 oz. tincture cathomene (not cardamon) and 5 ozs. syrup of hypophosphites comp., mix, and take a teaspoonful before each meal. Always shake well before taking.

• • •

Miss Beatrice asks: "Will you please prescribe for one who is too fleshy so that about 80 pounds is the right weight?"

Answer: Obtain of any well-stocked druggist a tube of 5-grain acidless tablets and take regularly as per directions accompanying same. Many of my patients have reduced at the rate of a pound a day without any ill results.

• • •

"Carpenter" writes: "My liver and kidneys are in a bad condition. I have dizzy spells and dark spots before my eyes. Also have twinges of rheumatism. Can I be helped?"

Answer: To cure kidney and liver trouble use three grain sulphetn tablets (not sulphur). These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions for taking. They act pleasantly and tone up the bowels and liver and purify the blood. They are convenient, effective and highly curative.

• • •

"Phoebe"—The following will cure your children of bedwetting: Get 2 drams of tincture rhus-aromatic; 1 dram tincture cubebs and 1 oz. comp. fluid balsowort. Mix, and give the child from 10 to 15 drops in water about one hour before each meal.

• • •

"Maud" writes: "I have suffered a great deal with catarrh. It gives me headaches, affects my eyes and my hearing is awful. Can you prescribe something to cure it? Only my nostrils and throat are affected."

Answer: Obtain of any good antiseptic snuff powder and grateful letters from hundreds indicate that it is specially curative, but must be used occasionally to prevent a recurrence. Get a two ounce original package of rhine powder, use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water. From the palm of the hand snuff the water through the nostrils until thoroughly cleansed, two or three times daily. Mix a level teaspoonful of rhine powder with an ounce of lard or vaseline and apply well up into the nostrils twice daily and your catarrh should soon be cured.

"Onda" writes: "I am troubled with itching scalp, dandruff and my hair is falling out. It is harsh and brittle.

Answer: Plain Yellow Minyol is the best remedy for itching scalp, falling hair and dandruff that I know of. It can be bought in 4 oz. jars and if used according to directions will cure all diseases of the hair and scalp. If the hair is harsh and brittle and you are bothered with those straggling locks, the use of minyol will restore that soft, fluffy appearance and bring back the intense natural color.

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College.

Have You Something to Sell to the Public?

If so, do you tell the public about it?

The answers to these questions may spell success or failure to many a merchant.

From an intimate association with a wide circle of concerns, merchandising all the necessaries of life, we venture to say:

"The quickest and surest way to reach the public is through the columns of a dependable daily newspaper like THE JOURNAL—one that has a high standing in the community it serves, and has the confidence of its readers.

"The most dependable articles sold today are those to which the manufacturer is not afraid to attach his label—that is to say, his reputation.

"Retail merchants are now joining hands with the manufacturer, and the public is thus doubly guaranteed against inferiority.

"The combination of manufacturer and retailer plus good, clean newspaper advertising means success to them both, with the maximum of satisfaction to the purchaser."

To Miss Hughes

Miss Ollie May Osborne was hostess at tea Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Peachtree Place, in compliment to Miss Mary Hughes, a bride-elect.

Gold and white were the colors used in the decoratio nof the home in the dining room a pleateau of white sweet peas edged with marigolds formed the center of the tea table, and white candles were tipped with gold filagre shades.

Receiving with Miss Osborne and Miss Hughes were Miss Margaret Porter, Miss Mary Will, Miss Nina Kirkpatrick, Miss Alma Downing, Miss Jessie Thompson, Miss Wickliffe Wurm, Mrs. John Whiteman, Mrs. Carl Brittain, Mrs. Joe Paulson and Mrs. F. A. Swann.

Baker-McGraw

The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Baker, on Peachtree road, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 8, Rev. S. H. Hocks officiating.

Third Ward Civic Club

Mr. Shepard, recently elected councilman, was the guest of honor. Many questions were asked and answered and plans were laid for the improvement and beautifying of Grant park, which is considered a very valuable possession of the Third ward. At the close of the business session the ladies went to the pavilion by invitation of Drs. Herbert and Florence Truax, whose home is near the park. A long table was decorated with the club colors, gold and brown.

Miss Irene White, Miss Maud Couch, Miss Laura Lewis and Miss Frances Crossland assisted in serving.

Miss Bernice Horton gave several dramatic readings and Dr. Florence Truax recited an original poem, "Turn Your Faces Toward the Sun," which had been presented at the City Federation of Woman's clubs as a response from the Third Ward club at roll call.

Southern Woman's Economic and Political Science Association

"An association which has aroused great interest during the past season," says the Times Democrat, "is the Southern Woman's Economic and Political Science association. The meetings of this association, which have been held twice a month in the committee room of the Howard Memorial library, have been largely attended, and have aroused the greatest enthusiasm. A library along the lines of study followed by the association has been started and so great is the interest that daily applications for membership have been pouring in. This organization is quite unique in character and its success has exceeded the expectations of the charter members.

The personnel of the association is particularly interesting, being composed of women of mind and ability. The association is to be democratic in character. The officers of the association are President, Miss Nina King, a sister of Miss Grace King, the historian and short story writer, who is a valued member; vice president, Mrs. Sam Labuisse; second vice president, Miss Imogen Stone, dean of Newcomb college; third vice president, Mrs. Edwin Rodd; recording secretary, Mrs. Fletcher; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Alfred Davies Preston; treasurer, Miss Sarah Henderson.

The objects of this association, as set forth in its constitution are:

Objects.

First. To study, and promote an interest in the sciences of economics and government, and their allied subjects; and, in particular, to study the economic life and history of the south.

Second. To encourage the youth of the south to study the economy and history of the south.

Third. To found in New Orleans a school of economics and political science, patterned, more or less, after the manner of the London School of Economics and Political Science; having for its particular purpose the study of the problems of the southern states; and to encourage the funding of institutions of this kind in other parts of the south.

Fourth. To encourage the founding of libraries of economics and political science in towns and cities throughout the south; and to encourage throughout the south associations for the study of these sciences, and the study of the economy and history of the south.

Miss Helen Gray, who has spent some time in New Orleans, is a member of the association, and gave a number of interesting talks at its different meetings.

Motordrome to Delay Opening Another Week

Cold Weather and Rain Make It Impossible to Have Riders on Track—Is Second Delay Within Week

Motordrome races off, COLD WEATHER.

That seems an incredible announcement for Atlanta in the month of June but it is official. Owing to the fact that Jack Prince's open air track has not been steam heated as yet there can be no races until the weather gets well above zero.

The meet, set originally for last Friday night, will be postponed from day to day now until the weather gets good. Every single thing is in readiness for the meet. Jack Prince sits up for an hour every day with the weather man and comes away with tears in his large, blue orbs.

Except for the obstinacy of the weather to get right everything is ripe and ready for the first meet. The riders are chafing at the delay and are worrying themselves sick over the enforced and unwelcome inaction.

No definite announcement can be made as to when the first meet will be held. Probably Thursday night. Anyhow the latest information on the weather and the chances for a meet will appear in the papers. Manager Noon Hudson will take no chances of fearing his patrons to death or of having his riders spilled on a wet track and will not hold the meet until it gets dry.

SAILOR WHITE IS NOT AFRAID TO MEET BEST OF HEAVIES

Savage-White Affair Should Be Stubbornly Contested All the Way—Two Good Preliminary Matches

Whether 208 pounds of slashing, smashing humanity, spread over six feet, two inches of human form will be enough to overcome the science, speed and punch of Jim Savage and wrest a decision from him at the auditorium-armory Friday night will be a matter for the future—and the referee—to decide.

Sailor White is all this slashing, smashing stuff—and more. He is a white hope with a chance. When he broke into the game a couple of years ago he did not have much but enthusiasm and a wallop. With this he knocked out man after man only to get a setback or two from men who knew more of the scarring game than he did. Then it occurred to him that hitting a hard blow wasn't all he needed to batten his way to the top of the heavyweight heap. So he went out and learned to box. Today finds him in as good a position as any of the rest to make a bid for the heavyweight title.

It was the knowledge that White is a "comer"—and coming fast at that—that led the auditorium-armory promoters to hook up with him for a bout Friday night. They wanted Flym but Jim was afraid to meet Savage, and developed a "broken hand"—the old gag. In looking over the field only one other man stood out—Sailor White. It did not appear at first that he could be landed, for these heavyweights see great opportunities in the present situation and are not taking any chances of getting trimmed. But White does not know what caution is, nor fear. He believes he can whip anybody in the world at anything. He has scrapped the toughest guys in the heavyweight division today and he classes Jim Savage along with the rest. "Sailor" knows that Savage can outbox him but that does not worry him in the least. He figures he can outslug Danny Morgan's husky portege and that he can batter down Savage's marvelous defense.

Sailor White has never taken part in anything that was not admitted by the critics to be a wonderful scrap. He whipped the great Pelky in ten rounds, he stopped Jim Barry in four, he got a draw with Gunboat Smith and he trimmed Kearns.

The opener will find Spinder Britt and M. Fries going ten rounds against each other for the first time. And it looks a great scrap. These lads cherish a regard for each other that is phenomenal for its unfriendly intensity. They have been in the same ring before and they always battled for blood—and lots of it.

With the route ten rounds both Fries and Britt believe they can settle their long standing argument. And whether they do or not there will be action.

The Mike Saul-Terry Nelson affair, which will be the next-to-last event of the evening, is sure to be a corker. Both these lads are willing, entausiastic mixers. Both of them are moderately clever. Each has a punch. They are confident and well trained. As a result there should be a big scrapping when they clash.

TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, June 10.—Heavily overcast skies, which during the forenoon spilled occasional showers, threatened to force postponement of today's game between Montgomery and New Orleans. Manager Dobbs, of the visitors, announced Manning and Gribbens as his battery choice, and Manager Frank indicated that Weaver and Adams would probably be used by the locals.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 10.—Nashville and Chattanooga play here today. The weather is fair and chilly. Williams or Dye will pitch for Nashville and Gibson will catch. For the visitors the battery is slated to be Kroh or Summers and Street.

Wolgast Takes Rest; Thumb Is Injured

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 10.—Confronted with three months of idleness to allow his injured thumb to heal, Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, is planning a three months' visit to the Hawaiian Islands. It is possible he never will be able to fight again, though his physician is hopeful.

COBB'S WORK

True to prophecy, the mighty Cobb is coming to himself again and is hitting the ball in that good old fashioned way. He is about to get the old eye back and with it the Detroit team starts to winning. In the game with Washington Monday he got two hits out of four times up and all that hot air about his hits being merely a matter of speed is all bull. He knocked a home run off the Washington twirlers and that is going some. The Georgia Peach believes in crap shooting and no good crap shooter will try to act a hog and get the whole pot in one game. As the shooters say, don't do more than you have to do, and that is the way with Cobb. What's the use of letting your energy go to the score board when a little single will do just as well and will not prolong the game.

Cobb is some man with his brains and he will be the big show in the main circus when some of the famous sluggers are reading the Daily Herald in the old home town around the stove at the country store. "Yes, I was some player in my day. I remember when I hit one over the—" and that is as far as he got. The old shoulder has developed the "Cracks" and the brain always had it so that's the way it goes. Cobb's figures for the season are:

Games.	At Bat	Runs	Hits	Avg.

ERRORS AND HITS THAT WON GAMES

The New York Americans defeated Chicago Monday by the score of 4 to 1. The Highlanders won by bunching hits off Cicotte in the fifth. Russell Ford was hit hard but good support on the part of the New Yorkers pulled him through a victor. Rath, Mattick, and they always battled for blood—and lots of it.

With the route ten rounds both Pries and Britt believe they can settle their long standing argument. And whether they do or not there will be action.

The Mike Saul-Terry Nelson affair, which will be the next-to-last event of the evening, is sure to be a corker. Both these lads are willing, entausiastic mixers. Both of them are moderately clever. Each has a punch. They are confident and well trained. As a result there should be a big scrapping when they clash.

The St. Louis Natolnals defeated the Boston team Monday in a free-for-all batting contest in which St. Louis got twelve hits, while the Boston boys got ten. Three of Bostons pitchers were driven from the mound. Sallee, pitcher for St. Louis, opened the sixth inning with a home run to the right field bleachers. Magee, for St. Louis, got three hits out of four times up, while Lord, for Boston, got three out of five times up.

Brennan, for Philadelphia, had Cincinnatti completely at his mercy Monday and the Pennsylvania boys won easily by the walkaway score of 10 to 1. Brennan allowed only four hits and held Cincinnati runless until the ninth, when they managed to put across one. It must have been an off day for the Cincinnati twirlers, as three of them were knocked out of the box. Lobert got three out four times up. while Cravath took three hits out of five times at the plate. Philadelphia got thirteen hits while Cincinnati took four.

Forbes field Monday saw the rottenest game of ball that has been played this year, according to those who saw the game. Pittsburg and Brooklyn tied up for an afternoon of sport and Brooklyn was the sportiest, defeating Pittsburg by the score of 10 to 7. The game was the other way until the ninth, when Brooklyn scored six runs off of Adams and easily won. Brooklyn got seventeen hits while Pittsburg got ten. Hummel, left fielder for Brooklyn, increased his average by a very healthy margin, he getting four hits out of four times up.

Falkenberg's big string of victories was broken today by the Boston Red Sox. If he had won today this would have made his eleventh straight victory, but the champs got next to him and won the game 4 to 1 and getting eight hits off of him. Peculiar as it may seem, he was taken out in the seventh to allow Lajoie to bat for him and when he stepped to the bench he was presented with a message telling him that another Falkenberg was in the world. He was the father of a son.

New York got next to Chicago pitchers Monday and won the game by the score of 11 to 3. In fact, they romped all over the Illinois boys. Mathewson was the big gun in the box and the support behind him was superior. New York got thirteen hits while Chicago got nine. Shafer and Murray each got three hits and Saier, for Chicago, also hit the ball for three safeties.

Bender got himself together in the game with St. Louis Monday and let them get only two scratch hits. They never had a chance to score during the entire game. The final score was 5 to 1 in favor of the Mackmen. Collins, Baker and Chng were the batting stars of the game, each getting two hits apiece. Johnson, while running after a fly in the seventh, fell over the cement coping, but later resumed play.

Detroit played rings around the Washington team Monday and won the game 6 to 4. The superior fielding of Detroit combined with errors on the part of Washington gave the Tigers the victory. Cobb and Willett both got home runs.

McLOUGHLIN'S WORK WINNER FOR THE U. S. TENNIS TEAM

NEW YORK, June 10.—One stage of America's quest of the Davis cup, emblematic of the world's tennis championship, was conquered here Monday afternoon when the United States team won the final and deciding matches of the preliminary tie against Australasia. On the turf courts of the West Side Tennis club Maurice E. McLoughlin defeated Stanley N. Doust, in straight sets by scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-3, and E. Norris Williams II, won from H. M. Rice, 1-6, 4-6, 6-1, 8-7, 6-2.

Either victory was sufficient to clinch the series. When the rival players in the first of the day's singles resumed the battle on the turfed court, surrounded by a gallery of 5,000 spectators the score of matches was two to one in favor of the United States team. McLoughlin swung into his speedy and masterful play at once and, although the invading team captain fought back violently, the outcome was not long left in doubt. Unable to handle the terrific service and returns of the United States champion the Antipedean was gradually worn down and placed on the defensive.

Williams opened against Rice in a weak and erratic manner but he came from behind in an impressive manner and won the match in the final three sets.

AMERICANS TO SAIL

The American team will sail from this city June 28 to meet at Wimbledon, England, next month, the German team which recently defeated the French entrants.

Although the Australasians have been eliminated from further competition in the Davis cup matches they are to proceed to England Thursday to participate in the English championships both in singles and doubles. After the match which decided the tie Doust, whom had just been defeated by McLoughlin, grabbed a megaphone and called for three cheers for the victors and then led in the cheering that followed his request. McLoughlin outplayed Doust in every department of the game, winning 18 games to 10 and 54 points to 49.

He outplayed the Australasian almost two to one and his nets and out of bounds shots were considerably fewer than Doust's.

McLoughlin found his greatest difficulty in handling the low twisting service and returns that Doust uses continuously.

In the Williams-Rice match the former was wild in service and volley in the early sets and outed and netted the ball repeatedly. Rice played his usual severe backhand game and placed with deadly accuracy in the first two sets.

The Harvard Freshman woke up in the third set and using more strength and care ran out in rapid fashion. The real tost came in the fourth set when both used utmost efforts to win. Williams rushed to the net at every opportunity, for he realized that Rice was his equal at back court play, and by these tactics, combined with excellent side line and cross court shots, finally won.

Crackers and Barons Likely To Stay Idle

Rain and Cold Weather Almost Sure to Rain Out the Pennant Raising Celebrations Slated for Tuesday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 10.—The scheduled double-header between the Atlanta and Birmingham club is very, very doubtful the intermittent rains and temperature of 56 degrees making it very inconvenient for the playing of a ball game. The pennant raising celebrations were postponed from Monday owing to rain and it is very probable that they will again have to be delayed.

The Birmingham fans are anxious to turn out, and show their true sportsmanship by endeavoring to have a larger crowd at the park than was shown by Atlanta on opening day but few wish to brave such weather as today. Of course the rain may let up and the sun come out, but until then the chances for a game are very slim.

However, in case a game is played the visiting manager will work Jim Brady and Paul Musser with Bill Foxen and Thompson working for the home club. Dunn and Mayer will do the catching.

In case another postponement is necessary the flag raising will be celebrated Wednesday which is the last day the Cracker club is in Birmingham this series. A double-header will also be staged Wednesday in case the games slated for Tuesday have to be postponed the pennant being pulled up the flag pole during the intermission between games.

STRONG FOR BEAN'S MEET

It seems now that all that Atlanta athletes wanted was a real chance to show their ability as is evidenced by their great response to the call for entries for the big event at Piedmont park on the fourth of July.

Joe Bean who has the meet in charge received 6 entries on Monday and say that several of the best men in the city have expressed their intention of entering. The meet will be along the regular field day lines and will be conducted under the auspices of the American Athletic union rules. Mr. Bean will also give special coaching to all those who may desire to enter the meet.

The entries which have been received so far are:

Walter Lock, Atlanta Athletic club, 880 yard run and steeple chase.

John Roberts, Marist, pole vault.

YALE WINNER OVER TIGERS

PRINCETON, N. J., June 10.—Princeton and Yale played off their baseball tie of Saturday on Monday afternoon and it took twelve innings to decide the issue. Yale winning 5 to 4. As Yale won the first game between the two teams at New Haven on May 31, the game gave them the series. It is the first time in four years that Yale has captured the series and it is the first time in 1895 that they have won two straight games from the Tigers.

Yale won the game in the twelfth when Middlebrook singled, stole second and third and tallied when Gill played Blossom's ground to first instead of the plate.

Kilbane vs. Fox

OAKLAND, Cal., June 10.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, and Johnny Fox, a San Francisco boxer, have completed training for their ten-round bout here tonight. The champion rules a pronounced favorite in the quoted odds. They will fight at 124 pounds ringside.

May Abolish The Stymies

BY GARDINER W. WHITE.

Each year there is some talk about doing away with the playing of stymies, at least some golf writer comes out with the statement that stymies should be and would be abolished.

It is true that thousands of golf matches have been won and lost through a stymie; are stymies fair? Well, that is the question. Would there have been a different story to tell about those thousands of matches which have been won through the very lucky process of a stymie. Stymies are only a matter of luck pure and simple, and why should luck have so much to do with the game?

Of course, there are two views in the matter. For example, if a man stymies himself I don't consider that hard luck. It is nothing but bad golf unless, for instance, his opponent is laying on the opposite side of the hole and the man putting should have his put for a win and the match very close, the man putting one down and two to play. To win a hole at that point is very necessary. Now, suppose the man away should miss his put for a win and in doing so run over and stymie himself. Is that bad golf? No, I don't consider that bad golf at all. He did the correct thing in putting for the hole when it was necessary, but yet he stymied him*self and lost the match when it looked* as though he would square it.

When a person says that he was laid a stymie intentionally, or that he had laid his opponent a stymie the same way, you may laugh up your sleeve, for it is not to lay a stymie intentionally. What he means is this, or at least he should mean it: If he should miss the hole there is a possibility of laying his opponent a stymie.

What would be the use of not trying to go in the hole, but simply trying to lay your opponent a stymie with the chances a hundred to one against you doing so. With the hole just about four times as large as a space that would stymie a golf ball, why not try to hole out when the odds are all in your favor.

So, after all, stymies are nothing more than a matter of luck, which, no doubt many other golf devotees like myself think ought to be eliminated from the game, if possible.

Polo Outfits In Big Clash For Title Cup

The Fans From Everywhere Throng Long Island for a Chance to Witness the Annual English-American Fight

NEW YORK, June 10.—Fair weather brought out a great throng of sport loving persons today for the first of the polo matches between the American and English teams for the West Chester cup. The trophy for many years has been regarded as emblematic of the world's championship and the opposing four on Long Island today were regarded as the best combinations of mallet wielders and mounts in the polo world today.

By bridge and tube, by automobile and train, the throng started early today for Westbury, L. I., where the Meadow Brook Country club was prepared to accommodate the largest crowd that ever witnessed a polo game here.

Additions to the stands which were in use when the American team defeated England two years ago made it possible to accommodate nearly 30,000 persons, a crowd comparing favorably with those seen at many of the championship baseball games, although polo is a sport generally regarded as limited in its following. As usual men and women of society circles were conspicuous in the crowds.

Although not officially representing the United States in this peaceful trial at arms with England, Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo was among those for whom a box had been reserved, while the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring Rice, was expected to be present to encourage the king's men. The United States army, which recently has taken up polo, was also expected to be represented by Major Thomas H. Barry, Major General Leonard Wood, Colonel Harry P. Allen and Colenel Charles G. Treat.

The fashionable colonies at Newport, Lenox and Tuxedo were reported as practically depleted by the rush of society to the game and many came from more distant points. Conspicuous in the throng were those who had been spectators during the past week at the motor international contest, the Davis cup tennis preliminary, in which the Ameri*cans defeated* the Australians, and sporting gossip in the corridors of the large hotels was strangely mixed with the vocabulary of the tennis court and tiffe polo field, as the enthusiasts tri*umphed over one victory* and discussed the chances of another.

So many overnight changes had been made in the polo situation that this feature was the center of polo gossip. The final decision of the American Polo association to pit the old "big four" against the English challengers decided upon the entering of the odds reported in the betting. The English quartet seemed to still rule a favorite.

The line-up as agreed upon today included no further changes, although there was still gossip of a proposal in the English camp to substitute Lord Wodehouse for Captain Vivian Lockett at back. It was doubtful, however, that this move would be made in the first game. The line-up stood as follows:

America:

No. 1, L. Waterbury; No. 2, J. M. Waterbury, Jr.; No. 3, H. P. Whitney; back, Devereaux Milburn.

England:

No. 1, Captain L. Stg. Cheape; No. 2, Captain A. Noel Edwards; No. 3, Captain R. G. Ritson; back, Captain Vivian Lockett.

Women Tennis Stars In Annual Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Play in the twenty-seventh annual women's tennis tournament for the championship of America, began Monday at the Philadelphia Cricket club. Miss Mary Brown, of Los Angeles, Cal., singles champion, is here to defend her title. Eighteen matches were played in the first round of singles. Miss M. Toedt, of Pasadena, a prominent Pacific coast player, was eliminated by Miss Talman, of this city, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

SCOUTS ON LOOKOUT

Wildness of the Flingers in the Big Show Attrbuteid to the Use of So Many New Balls in Effort to Keep the Game Fast

BY JULIAN MURPHEY.

The scouts are now getting busy picking out the players they will make a bid for when the time rolls around for the big show people to begin to buy and draft the stars from the minors. In the course of the next six weeks every league in the country will be treated with a fine tooth comb by scouts from both the American and National leagues and when they finish their work there won't be a star who has escaped.

SCOUTS IN ATLANTA.

Already Atlanta has had four scouts doing duty here. The Cracker team this year is attracting no little attention by the way the boys have been hitting the pill. Every major league outfit is in for the hitters, a .300 hitter being acceptable to most any club even though he can't field anywhere around the 1,000 mark.

During the series with Chattanooga last week Joe Sugden, Mike Kahoe and Howard Earle were all in town looking over the two teams. Of course they came here to see certain players whom friends had tipped off but they had their eyes open all the while making their own observations and conclusions. Sugden went so far as to scout some of the Cracker and Lookout hurlers. Joe is great at picking up good flingers and there is no telling just what he learned about the different hurlers he saw work here.

On the Atlanta club are several players who are bound to go higher with the windup of the present season and each major team is overly anxious to get in on the ground floor. Wallace Smith, Harry Welchonce, Tommy Long, Paul Musser and Bisland are attracting especial notice and more than one is sure to get a trial in big company. About the only players on the Lookout squad who are attracting any notice are members of the hurling staff, none of the others being quite good enough to shine up higher.

NEW BALLS HURT HURLERS.

The extreme wildness of the flingers in the majors is attributed to the use of so many new balls. Just about the time the flinger gets the ball a bit rough so he can handle it with any accuracy it is hit foul and a new one is immediately substituted. In an effort to hurry the game the outfielders are not allowed to chase foul balls which run down the base lines, the umpires substituting a new ball the minute the one in play is hit to any spot where it would take a few seconds to get it.

Anyone who has ever handled a ball will know that it is harder to handle a new ball than an old. It is very slick and is difficult for the hurlers to get a sufficiently good grip to keep from often tossing it out of the lot. This causes many bases on balls and results in big scores, all of which really makes the game longer than if the players were allowed to chase up the old balls each time they fouled.

BETWEEN INNINGS.

Today I take my pen in hand,
Or shooting at the truth, I mean
I slip a new typewriter band
Within the fold of my machine;
And then I set a hectic pace,
Like Honus Wagner up at bat,
To fill my little bunch of space—
And let it go at that.

Such is the game of life throughout—
We take our little work in hand,
And, silent, or with noisy shout,
We plug along to beat the band;
We think we set a hectic pace,
But on the way, pal, play it pat;

CRABBING A SYSTEM.

Col. Bert Leston Taylor advances a new method he has discovered for hitting a golf ball. His idea is "to tee the ball, stand over it threateningly and glare at it balefully. As you swing back, say, between shut teeth, 'you pock-marked ——' then at the top of the swing apply the missing noun."

It may work in some cases, where in others it won't. We have only seen it tried once, and then for complete failure. We know a golfer who begins pursing the minute he approaches the tee, never stops cursing the ball as he addresses it; continues his profanity all through his swing, without pausing for another breadth as he starts for his second shot.

He walks up to his approach cursing the ball, the club, the course and himself. He curses his "third," "fourth" and "fifth" and curses luodest of all as he is putting. At the end of the two years, he tells us, this system has left him the cursing record of 17 courses under par, but he has yet to play below a 98.

ADVANCING A PLEA—

If any renowned scientist, savant or such ever discovers any system by which gore can be extracted from a turnip will he be so kind as to cable the procedure to Prof. F. Leroy Chance?

THE WRECKING CREW.

The odds are now 2 to 1 on the British polo team against America's entry. We don't know a brainful about polo, but if the committee in charge will supplant its present tour with Cobb, Jackson, Wagner and Baker we'll take up all the 3 to 2 British coin in sight. We have no idea how this four would ride, but we have a faint glimmering as to what would happen to any British defense by the time these four had drawn a running wallop at the ball.

Imagine betting 2 to 1 against Ty, Hans, Joe and Frank in any game where one of the leading requisites was to paddle the padding out of the pill!

CRACKING TRADITION.

Cleveland has yet to win its first pennant after thirty years' warfare. It has been six years since a Cleveland club made threatening gestures up around the front.

But after this long wait the Cleveland clan today is the one barrier between Connie Mack and his fifth flag. Joe Birmingham has a regular ball club and one that has shown it can battle on minus the larruping Frenchman. He has a club fighting and fortified—the main essentials beyond ability. And if Cleveland stops Philadelphia next week when they pound together in a four-day melee there'll be trouble ahead before even the Mackian machine can announce Bender or Plank for that first big October game.

The Naps are no longer merely slugging the ball. In one tight game recently they had men on second and third and two out. "Lay down a bunt," Birmingham signaled to the batter. The shock of this apparently "bad baseball" was such that said bunt was heaved into the stands and both scored.

It was considered "bad football," very bad, when the Carlisle Indians shot a forward pass on the first down from their own fifteen-yard line against the Army. None of the best people were doing it that season. It may have been bad football, but Thorpe ran for a touchdown almost without opposition.

"Pulling what the other bloke isn't looking for" is only second in baseball to "hitting 'em where they ain't." Cleveland is working on this system now, and it has helped as much as her pitching, batting and fielding have helped.

CIRCUIT DRIVES HELP PHILLIES TO GET LEAD

One of the reasons why the Phillies, after reaching the top rung of the championship ladder on May 4, have managed to keep possession of it has been the ability of the players to punch out four baggers. The Quakers easily are the home run kings of the major league world, and to May 24, inclusive, had made sixteen of the sixty-eight circuit clouts manufactured in Tom Lynch's organization.

To the same date in the American league twenty-eight four-bag blows had been struck, so Dooin's Daisies have to their credit one-sixth of the major league home run output of 1913.

Sherwood Magee, Fred Luderus and "Cactus" Cravath are the dangerous athletes on the Quaker combination. These three men have whaled out twelve four-baggers and have broken up many a combat. Magee has five homers to his credit, of which three were secured off right-handers and two off left-handers. Sherwood obtained his first loop-the-loop swat on April 26 off Hub Perdue, of the Braves; his second and third off Rube Marquard, of the Giants on May 5; his fourth off Marty O'Toole, of the Pirates, on May 12, and his fifth off Howard Camnitz, of the same combination, on the following day.

Fred Luderus has poled four homers, his first hit of this kind being made at the Polo Grounds off Jeff Tesreau and the next three wallops being manufactured in Philadelphia. The pitchers Ludy maltreated at home were Steele, of St. Louis, and Harter and Brown, of Cincinnati. Luderus has had the happy faculty of making his four-baggers at opportune moments, for the hits off Steele and Brown won games for the Doonintes.

Cravath, who, if he could field as well as he can hit, would stand an excellent chance of winning the car offered by Hugh Chalmers, of Detroit, for the National league's most valuable player, has three homers to his credit. He gained the most while acting as a pinch hitter, smiting the first ball served him by Christy Mathewson and promptly driving it out of the lot. Rube Marquard and Howard Camnitz are the other flingers whom Cravath has jarred for homers.

Besides, Magee, Luderus and Cravath, four other Phillies—Dode Paskert, Otto Knabe, Mike Doolan and Tom Seaton—have hit for the circuit this year. Knabe's four-ply smash kept the Phils from falling into second place and Packert's was made on the first ball pitched in the first inning, he being the Quaker's lead-off man.

Palmetto Beaks Even

PALMETTO, Ga., June 10.—Palmetto cotton mill team journeyed down to Raymond, Ga., Monday and played the Raymond team two games. Palmetto won the first 4 to 5, and second went seven innings, 0 to 0. It was called on account of the Palmetto boys to catch a train.

The feature of the first game was the long catch of H. Brown for Palmetto with two men on bases and two down in the sixth inning with the score 4 and 5 in Palmetto's favor.

Batetries: Palmetto, Willoughby and Brown. For Raymond, J. McDanal and J. North.

The feature of the second game was the pitching of Timbs for Palmetto, and H. McDanal for Raymond. It was a pitchers' battle from start to finish. No one was able to get over the home plate.

Palmetto did not make an error and Raymond only one.

Gate City Wns

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., June 10.—Gate City beat Lois Mill Monday afternoon in one of the best played games that has been witnessed here this season.

The feature of the game was the battery work of both teams.

Stars Enter English Meet

NEW YORK, June 10.—Wallace F. Johnson, of Philadelphia, who was formerly the intercollegiate tennis champion, was booked as a passenger on the steamship Kronprinzen Cecilie, sailing today for England as the first of four prominent players who will enter the all-England championship tournament, which begins on the courts at Wimbledon, near London, on Monday, June 23. As announced, Maurice E. McLoughlin, the Californian; R. Morris Williams, II, the young Harvard player, and Harold H. Hackett, of New York, who have just defeated the Australians in the Davis cup preliminary, will follow next Thursday on the steamer Baltic, to complete the quartet of American entrants, and incidentally to get practice for the later rounds in the Davis cup competitions.

McLoughlin proved such a fiery opponent yesterday, in adding the third and deciding point to the American score in the Davis cup preliminary, that the Australians dubbed him the "California comet."

His admirers among his own countrymen today could find no words too strong for his praise. If there were any criticism of his work, it was on the ground that his defense was not as strong as his service. His forehand cross court passing strike was wonderfully accurate, but his backhand stroke was sometimes made too close to the body, handicapping its effectiveness.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Limbernecks

AS many people have written me recently about this dreaded disease and much complaint has come to my notice lately from this one trouble, notwithstanding I have repeatedly warned people about it and how dangerous it was, I will again give a remedy and caution people to prevent it if possible. Thousands of chickens die from this one trouble, and probably it is dreaded by people who have had experience with it more than all other diseases put together, because when it once gets in a flock almost before you know it the entire flock is gone. This trouble is mistaken by many for cholera and other various diseases, and during the next few months is the time you are likely to have trouble with it, and you should leave nothing undone to prevent any such occurrence among your flock of fowls.

Limberneck is nothing more than ptomaine poison and is caused from chickens eating putrid matter from some dead carcass that has come within their reach. As a majority of chickens are dilligently in search of something to eat and especially bugs they will find a dead carcass or anything of this nature that should happen to be around the premises, and often when a person cannot find it a chicken will do so. Every chicken that dies, or anything else of like nature that is liable to decay and produce maggots should be burned, never thrown out in the open but buried. Often people will busy chickens and dogs or other things will scratch them up and make this poisonous matter subject to the chickens finding it. I have known of several cases where people had buried chickens in the garden and probably several months afterwards had plowed the garden, turning up more or less of this decayed matter. Their chickens had come in contact with it, following the plow after worms, and they had lost their entire flock or a large part of them. This is one reason I have always advocated keeping chickens in yards where you can keep them under control and where you know positively they do not get anything but pure, sound, wholesome food, and it pays one year after another to keep your chickens confined unless your premises are such that you can keep them absolutely clean.

Very often a little chicken will die or get drowned out in the weeds or in some corner that you will never find until it is filled with maggots, and is in the right stage to probably kill one or two hundred chickens, and a person should carefully inspect their premises if their chickens are out on a free range every two or three days to prevent anything of this kind ever happening. When a fowl eats enough of this putrid matter (and it only requires a small amount) it will poison their system. It is not the maggots that they eat which does the work, but it is the putrid matter that the maggots are covered with that causes the trouble. A chicken when once affected with this trouble will often sit around asleep, then will have high fever, will foam at the mouth and their head will fall over to one side and a great many of them will not have any use of their body at all. When this is at an advanced stage the feathers will come loose from the body, almost like a chicken was scalded, but this takes place only in an advanced stage. Often chickens will linger for several days, but usually it kills within twenty-four hours.

Immediately after a person has found this trouble among their chickens the best thing to do is to yard every chicken where you are sure they will get only what you give them to eat, which with the well ones first and if possible give them Conkey's Limberneck Cure, which is an antidote that will counteract the trouble almost immediately. If this cannot be had dissolve one teaspoonful of Epsom salts in some warm water with one-half teaspoonful of sugar in it and mix this with two pints of corn meal. This will be enough for ten grown chickens and for smaller or younger ones, and should be given twice a day until your chickens' system is thoroughly cleansed. Those that are too far gone to eat should have Conkey's limberneck medicine mixed with dough and made into pills and several pills as large as the end of your thumb broken down and given to them. If they are not too far gone this will relieve them. If Conkey's limberneck cure cannot be had for cases in the advanced stage use one teaspoonful of turpentine to one pint of dough with some raw linseed oil of which to work it with. In many cases raw linseed oil will always cure, but one teaspoonful should be mixed with a small amount of corn meal dough and this made into pills and given the chickens.

Raw linseed oil is undoubtedly one of the best medicines that can possibly be given old and young chickens, also cows and horses as it acts almost immediately. It is cooling and soothing in its action and will get the digestive organs to working as quickly as anything I know of. Ten drops for a small chicken or one-half teaspoonful for a large chicken, repeated as often as necessary is very valuable to treat many different kinds of troubles with if taken at the first beginning. One could be very careful and get the raw oil as the boiled oil or that with rye in it is injurious and will kill rather than cure. Most druggists keep the raw oil and can supply it.

Any person who has a large flock of chickens should always keep something on hand for immediate use because you never know when these things will take place, and it is too late after you have lost a large flock of chickens. For a small amount invested to have these things constantly on hand is one of the best investments you can make. Thousands of chickens can be saved annually by this dreaded disease if the above precautions are used, or treated in time with these remedies if you should happen to be so unfortunate as to have it appear in your flock.

Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.
Mineral Bluff, Ga.

Through the columns of the Atlanta Journal I notice you are an authority on chickens. Will you please tell me what is the matter with my chicks? When about four days old they begin to get weak and sleepy, their craw seems to get hard, some of them, their bowels begin to run off. I keep them in a clean place, and give them grit the first thing when I take them off. Then I feed them on cracked corn. An early reply will be greatly appreciated.

J. R. C.

ANSWER.
The feed you are giving your chickens is not the right kind. They should have something in addition to plain cracked corn. It is too rich and too heating for young chickens that are just hatched. Any of the little chick scratch feeds that are sold on the market are better, and they should have just what they will eat up clean of these. You have upset their digestive organs to begin with and that is the reason why they are not doing well. They should be fed just what they will eat up clean every two hours of the scratch feed up until they are one week old. Then a mixture of one part meat scraps and two parts bran should be kept before them at all times.

QUESTION.
Norcross, Ga.

Please let me know whether Sonax Dip will do for white chickens. I have heard that it will darken white chickens to dip them with any kind of dip that is tar in it.

R. L. M.

ANSWER.
I have never used the Sonax Dip that you mention. Therefore can not tell if it will soil white chickens or not. I do know that Bee Dee Dip will not soil white chickens, and it is used with safety. Nearly every drug store and seed dealer carry this in stock. It is cheap and certainly reliable. If you can not secure it in your town it can be had of Bee Dee Stock Medicine company, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Any dip that has tar products in it will usually soil a white bird. Therefore it is best to use something that is not composed of tar products in dipping light colored birds.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

NORTH SIDE HOME BARGAINS

PEOPLE with five or six thousand dollars looking for north side homes have found out, if they have looked to any extent that it is almost impossible to get any place that resembles a good, substantial, close-in location for that amount of money. When the word PEACHTREE is mentioned you immediately think of a place from ten thousand dollars on up, and that is usually the case.

ELEVENTH, Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets are about the ideal north side residence section, for reasons that are familiar to all. On Twelfth street not over three hundred feet from Peachtree, between Eleventh, Fourteenth and West Peachtree, right in the apartment house section, we have on the corner of Crescent avenue a nine-room cottage on lot 50x150 feet. This can be had for $5,500. We have also the next two cottages on lots 50x150 each, can be had for $5,500 and $5,000 respectively. Adjoining the corner of Twelfth and Crescent on Crescent avenue we have another seven-room cottage on lot 54x150 feet, 20-foot alley on side and 16-foot alley in rear, that can be had for $4,500. On Thirteenth street, between Peachtree and Piedmont avenue, on lot 50x142 feet, we have a seven-room cottage, price $5,000, one-fourth cash. You can buy any of the above places mentioned, balance one, two and THREE FIVE places can handle to best either for homes or speculation and are well worth looking into.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Lot on Lullwater Road in Druid Hills Brings $12,000 Cash. Sale of Arkwright Residence Goes to Record—Ansley Park Sale—Eighteen Bonds for Title in Tuesday's Realty Transfers—Local Bank Clearings Show Gain

Mrs. Mary W. Raoul has bought from Druid Hills a large lot on Lullwater road, in Druid Hills, for $12,000 cash. The sale was handled by Forrest Adair, Jr., of the Forrest and George Adair agency.

This lot is on the west side of the road, beginning one hundred and 150.6 feet north of Ponce de Leon avenue, and it faces the golf course. It has a frontage of 200 feet and a depth of 500 feet, and was sold at the rate of $60 a front foot.

Mrs. Raoul will begin shortly the erection of a residence on the property.

RESIDENCE SALE.

A warranty deed covering the Juniper street residence of Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright to T. B. Gay went to record Monday. The consideration was $16,300.

The property is on the east side of the street, 230 feet north of Sixth street. The lot is 50x195.

ANSLEY PARK SALE.

Earle Greene ,of the Thomson & Lynes agency, has sold for Leon Poujaud, of Cuba, to Dunbar and Sewell, two lots on the Prado, in Ansley park, for $3,000.

MANY BONDS FILED.

The considerations are small, but they show considerable activity and the property involved represents nearly every real estate section of Atlanta and Fulton county.

DECATUR CLUB BUILDING.

The Decatur Tennis club company will begin shortly the erection of a club house on its three-acre lot on Avary Drive, in Decatur. The building will be of frame construction with stone foundation.

The club has four tennis courts, and the building will include a bowling alley, ballroom, reception room and shower baths—all the equipment of an up-to-date club house.

BANK CLEARINGS INCREASE.

As real estate depends on general business conditions, agents and traders found a great deal in Monday's news to encourage them.

To begin with, Atlanta bank clearings showed a gain of 28 per cent, the largest gain of any American city, and one of the few gains of any kind shown.

Bradstreet reported fine conditions all through the southeastern territory. Trade was reported good and cotton was shown as responding splendidly to recent rains.

In addition there were interviews with prominent eastern and western bankers who said that the future held promise of increasing prosperity for the country as a whole.

PLOT TO OVERTHROW HUERTA IS UNCOVERED

Five Held as Leaders in Movement—Military Officials Are Suspected

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, June 10.—As the result of the discovery of a plot to incite rebellion in the capital, the police last night arrested Dr. Rafael Cepeda, former governor of San Luis Potosi, and four men of less political prominence. A number of army officers of minor rank are said to be involved in the plot against the Huerta government.

More than 250 members of the federal garrison which was unsuccessful in the defense of Zacateous against a superior rebel force several weeks ago, were either killed or taken prisoners, according to survivors who today straggled into Aguascalientes. Telegraphic communication between the capital and Zacatechs has been suspended for more than a month and today's news was the first direct confirmation the government had received of the reported capture of the city by the rebels.

TWENTY OF 300 LIVE.

Only twenty men of the Zacatecas garison of 300 escaped, according to the statement of these survivors, which was telegraphed to the war department from Aguancallentes. The attacking force, they stated, numbered about 900. The federals resisted until fighting in the streets had resulted in the killing of many non-combatants.

The successful rebels forced loans and looted some of the business houses of the city. One of the wealthiest residents of Zacatecas was executed because he refused to contribute 20,000 peses to the revolutionists. The governor was made a prisoner. No mention was made of any foreigners being injured.

Four cannon and a few machine guns were captured by the rebels, but the refugees stated that practically all of the ammunition not used in the defense of the garrison was exploded before the federals surrendered.

PREPARE FOR ATTACK.

According to advices received by the war department a rebel army is moving on Aguascallentes, where the garrison is not large and the situation is complicated by the presence of many idle workmen who are expected to join the rebel ranks.

NORTH CAROLINA WILL PROBE FREIGHT RATES

(By Associated Press.)

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 10.—In response to a question from a Citizen representative, Governor Locke Craig who has arrived here for a month's rest, declared that a special session of the legislature will be called to consider the freight rate question as it affects this state. He said:

"There will be a special session of the legislature. That has been contemplated ever since the last session of the general assembly, and I will certainly take any proper action that may be necessary to secure for North Carolina fair treatment by the railroads.

"The people are determined that they will no longer suffer the injustice to which they have been subjected for years in the matter of freight rates, and I will do all in my power to aid them in this contest. With fair treatment the cities and towns of North Carolina would grow and prosper, and we are going to have that treatment before long."

NEGRO IS HANGED FOR ASSAULT NEAR CAPITOL

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Nathaniel Green, a negro who criminally assaulted a white woman within sight of the capitol on Christmas night, went to his death on the scaffold today, the first man to pay the death penalty forsuch a crime in the District of Columbia. He had confessed and President Wilson had refused clemency.

Almost in a state of collapse Green was assisted to the gallows and was dead in ten minutes.

RECEIVERS ARE NAMED FOR TOBACCO FIRMS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 10.—Temporary receivers for Robert Harris & Brother, tobacco manufacturers, and J. H. Walker & Co., a milling concern, both of Reidsville, N. C., were named today by the federal court on petition of creditors.

They are cited to appear June 23 and show cause why they should not be declared bankrupt.

SENATE WILL KEEP WOOL ON FREE LIST

Underwood Bill Before Democrats of Finance Committee to Solve Many Problems

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Democrats of the senate finance committee met today to consider changes in the tariff bill, proposed by sub-committees.

Reductions in the metal, agricultural and sundry schedules, increases in the cotton and pottery schedules and an enlargement of the free list were presented. In most cases the changes suggested by the sub-committees were expected to meet the approval of the majority members.

Some problems the sub-committees have been unable to settle and they will be left to the full majority membership to solve. These include income tax provisions affecting certain classes of bonds and other features, administrative provisions affecting foreign governments, the proposal to give the secretary of the treasury authority to proclaim valuation of imports, a proposal to change ad valorem rates on silks to specific duties and the suggestion that countervailing duties be placed on live stock and grain, making them free of duty only from countries that do not tax their entry from the United States.

The bill is certain to go to caucus with free raw wool and the free sugar schedule. There now seems to be little prospect that they will be changed by the caucus.

REV. J. W. HOWARD WEDS MISS PITTS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 10.—The marriage of Rev. J. W. Howard, one of the aged and best known Missionary Baptist ministers in this section, to Miss P. E. Pitts, of near Opelika, was an interesting event of the week.

Rev. Mr. Howard is a Confederate veteran, the father of a number of grand children and he has been engaged in the ministry in and around Columbus near fifty years. He has built several churches in this section and his pastorate has been quite successful throughout.

dence of sanity should have been received. The circuit court refused to grant his release, but Charlton appealed to the supreme court. It was this appeal that was acted upon today.

As an evidence of Charlton's insanity, his counsel offered to prove that as a child he had fits of extreme rage, giving as one instance, his begging to be permitted to take vengeance on a horse that had run away with him. Another instance referred to was the occasion when Paul Charlton, his father, inquired as to his son's resources, when told of his marriage, the result being that the son refused to dine with him, and later, on his honeymoon trip, wrote to his father a letter "so full of foulness and abuse that the father destroyed it unread, except a glance through it to see its purport."

Evidence was offered to show that the family history of Porter Charlton supported the claim of insanity. Counsel offered to offer testimony on the medical history of the murdered wife to show she had once been confined in an institution in New York, suffering from erotic insanity. It was explained that her condition was important as bearing on Charlton's mental condition.

ALL THE WORLD COMING TO AMERICA FOR SHOES

WASHINGTON, June 10.—All the world is coming to the United States for boots and shoes, according to the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, which, in a statement today declares that about 100 countries and dependencies are buying that class of merchandise here. It is estimated that the sale abroad of boots and shoes in the fiscal year ending this month will total $20,000,000. In 1900 only $5,000,000 worth left the shores and in 1890 less than $1,000,000 worth. The importation into the United States will be only about $250,000.

650 TOMBSTONE MAKERS THROW DOWN CHISELS

NEW YORK, June 10.—Not an epitaph was chiselled in two-thirds of the stone cutters shops in Brooklyn today. The tombstone makers for half a dozen cemeteries, 650 men, are on strike for more pay and a half holiday on Saturdays. They demand an increase of approximately 20 per cent in wages.

ATLANTIANS PULL FOR BUILDING OWNERS' MEET

Enthusiastic Delegation Puts Forth Strenuous Efforts At Cincinnati

(By Associated Press.)

CINCINNATI, June 10.—Five hundred delegates representing seventy-five cities in the United States and Canada were present when the sixth annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers was called to order here today. The organization has for its object the bringing together of the owners of buildings or their representatives for the purpose of bettering conditions, construction and management of buildings.

JAMES DRUG COMPANY OPENS PEACHTREE STORE

I. Leonard James, who has successfully conducted a drug business at 247 West Peachtree for the past two and a half years, under the name of the James Drug company, has opened a new store at 141 Peachtree street.

Mr. James states that he will make the prescription department a feature of his new store. He also states that the patrons of the West Peachtree store will continue to receive the same prompt service.

The new store is one of the prettiest and most attractive of any in the city, and the public is cordially invited to visit and inspect it.—(Advt.)

SECOND WEDDING PUTS THIS MAN IN JAIL

(By Associated Press.)

MOBILE, Ala., June 10.—John Fowler, a local inventor whose first wife, procured through an advertisement in a local newspaper a year ago, left him eight days after the ceremony, took a second venture into matrimony today. He married Mrs. Mary S. Maupin, where three children, he said, would be surety for her regular appearance at home. Hardly had the fire on the new hearthstone been lighted, when a police officer stepped in and arrested the bridegroom on a charge of being a dangerous and suspicious character.

The officer said the fire was too large for such a warm evening. Mrs. Maupin took Mr. Fowler as her third husband. Mrs. Fowler says she married her first husband 12 years ago in the house in which President Wilson was born in Staunton, Va.
